EDITORIAL

- Thank you to Nick Maalouf, Cameron Lloyd and Ray Bird for sharing their knowledge with the high school students (and the youth challenged) during 'Kids and their Olds In Cars' last Friday. Nick's popularity went through the roof when he opened the fridge and passed around the Coca-Cola.
- Greg O'Neil, Road Safety Officer, did mean to tell the students that they can log onto the Roadwise website www.roadwise.asn.au/ to have the opportunity to win a 30gb iPOD. Simply go to the website and follow the prompts. If any of you win don't forget who told you about it! Competition closes Friday 22nd June
- Feel like a good read? Maurice Lock from Albany has written about his life. As a cerebral palsy sufferer Maurice has had to face challenges that most of us never have to consider. The Telecentre has agreed to sell these books on behalf of Maurice, if you would like a copy we have some at the Telecentre.
- For anyone who's been on the hunt for HBF and Medicare Forms they are now available from the Lake Grace Medical Centre. Although the Telecentre has a Medicare booth we are not allowed to hold claim forms.
- Photo booth is on the way. We will need the support of the community in this venture. We need to have 32 customers every month, if we don't have them then the Telecentre has to pay. I'll let you all know when it gets here. Should only be a few weeks.
- The Welcome Package will be ready to by the time the next Lakes Link comes out. If you are getting new staff coming into town, please let us know so that we can give you one of the packages. Feel free to drop in and have a look and make any suggestions.
- I would like to thank Greg Pinney, Angela Poulson of Gnowangerup and Ken Shields of Ongerup for their help in naming the players on the front cover. If anyone would like a copy of the team photo we are able to print them off at the Telecentre.

Exploring Art

Lake Grace Artist's Group opened their most recent exhibition 'Exploring Art' on Friday 8th June. The exhibition is the culmination of the many workshops that they have held in the first half of 2007.

Monthly workshops have been held where local artists have had the opportunity of sharing their knowledge; some of these included 'Journal Making', 'Marks in Paint', 'Folk Art', 'Paper Clay' and 'Bottles to Beauty'. The latter being a quite unique workshop where Tania Spencer demonstrated how empty cool drink bottles (plastic) are converted into quite beautiful flowers. These flowers will never wither or die and seem to flourish quite well in a water wise garden.

Weekend workshops were also held where invited artists tutored on Silk Painting (Marlene Page) and Observational Drawing/Painting as a Trigger (Angela Stewart).

Tania Spencer welcomed everyone to the exhibition before introducing local flautist, Theresa Naisbitt, who played four pieces. The exhibition was formally opened by Ms Michelle Slarke. Ms Slarke thanked the community for their continued attendance at openings and exhibitions, as this support enabled the Lake Grace Artist's Group to contribute toward the growing development and appreciation of art within our community.

Curated by Judy Stewart and Sarah Allen, the eclectic exhibition provides something for everyone and will be running until Friday 29th June.

ABOUT TOWN

- Congratulations to Rebecca Roper who celebrated her 18th birthday with family and friends last weekend.
- Well done also to Gaillene Kennedy who had a nice surprise on the weekend when family and friends gathered to help her celebrate a significant birthday.
- Sympathy to the Taplin family on the loss of their mother and grandmother who passed away recently.
- Welcome back to Harley Pittard who recently spent some time holidaying in Singapore with his father.
- A welcome back also to our FESA cadets who recently spent time aboard the Leeuwin sailing boat. We'll have to get a few yarns off them for the next LLN.

Could anyone who is driving around the bollards to drop their children off to Daycare please stop doing so. The bollards were put in place for the safety of children, driving around them negates their effects and is also compacting the surface of the oval.

CWA News

Each year CWA of WA studies one of the countries of the world. The country we are studying for 2007 is Finland.

Lake Grace CWA is looking for anyone who has visited Finland and would like to be our guest speaker on July 10th. This would be most appreciated. Thank you!! Please contact Mrs Shirley Elliott on 9865 1137 or Mrs Elsie Bishop on 9865 1632.

Lake Grace branch is a member of the Central Great Southern Division and on May 28th we participated in the very successful annual combined Vice Presidents Rally and Cultural Day in Badgebup.

Many thanks to Sheryl Smith for her detailed report on the event.

FESA News

There has been a reshuffle of the seating arrangements at the Lake Grace Volunteer Fire and Rescue after their AGM which was held on Wednesday 13th June.

Ray Bird has retained his Captaincy, however Rob Hutter is now foreman (2nd in charge), Marcus Owen is secretary/treasurer and Dan Clifton-Parkes is the apparatus officer

In the last 12 months our volunteers have had six callouts, three of which were vehicle accidents.

Lake Grace's Fire and Rescue have a strong membership, more are always welcome. This weekend they will be holding their annual Captains dinner.

Captain Bird would like to thank the brigade members and their partners for their assistance over the last 12 months.

Please remember for ALL emergencies please ring 000.

SCIENCE AND STUFF

EARTH to EARTH, not ASHES to ASHES:

Professor Short is promoting environmentally friendly deaths or more precisely, environmentally friendly ways of disposing of the departed. "Think Earth to Earth," he says, "but not ashes to ashes or dust to dust".

Short, a reproductive biologist at the University of Melbourne, notes that cremation is becoming more popular as cities run out of space for cemeteries. However, the average Australian male produces 50kg of carbon dioxide during the cremation process. Instead, Short advocates burying people in cardboard boxes that will eventually decay, allowing the nutrient-filled contents to be returned to the soil. If a tree is planted above the site, the dearly departed will fertilise it as they decay. A single tree over a 100-year period absorbs over a metric tonne of carbon dioxide,

Short says, "so imagine the difference it could make if everyone was buried and had a tree planted in their memory". Short acknowledges that his ideas conflict with cultural sensitivities. While his suggestion that people could choose their favourite species of tree to grow above them may attract some enthusiasm, the suggestion that participation will make people "feel better about dying" might prove overly optimistic. To get around the problem of burial space, people could be interred standing up. "Forget pushing up daisies," he says. "We should be pushing up forests instead".

UPLIFTING:

Global warming, overfishing and pollution are not the only threats to coral reefs. Natural forces can play a role as well, with an earthquake identified as the cause of massive damage over 600 km of Indonesian coastline. On 28 March 2005, an earthquake lifted a huge stretch of the ocean floor near Aceh.

Unlike the quake three months earlier, there was no significant tsunami, so the human toll was two orders of magnitude lower. However, coral reefs around the island of Simeuleu were suddenly lifted 1.2 metres closer to the surface of the ocean. None of the coral lifted by the earthquake have survived. Some of the coral lifted out of the water remained sufficiently preserved to be able to recognise individual species. Meanwhile, the surviving reef is facing a new danger in the crown-of-thorns starfish. Although the starfish have occasionally done damage to the Great Barrier reef, they have never before been observed causing extensive damage in Indonesia (Wildlife Conservation Society Coral Reef Studies).

SPACE SENTATION:

NASA inaugurated its shuttle launch simulator at the Kennedy Space Centre in Florida on 25th May. The 44-seat simulator is designed to give visitors a taste of a vertical launch as the shuttle speeds to 28,000 kilometres per hour. Effects include bone-rattling vibrations and the ear-shattering roar of engines.

GREAT LAKES IN CRISIS:

Tom Mackay reckons his backyard in Duluth shows what is happening in Lake Superior as well as any place. In November 2005, the metre-tall wooden "Bay Ness Monster" statue he installed in the water just off his home dock was submerged up to its gaping mouth. Today, his would-be water serpent is high and dry. For residents of this lakeside Minnesota city, located more than 3000 kilometres by boat from the open Atlantic, the transformation is disturbing.

Lake Superior, the largest body of fresh water in the world by surface area, is experiencing its lowest water levels since the record set in 1926. Lake Superior's surface waters have warmed by about 2.5°C since 1979, far more than average air temperatures in the region during the same period (Geophysical Research Letters, vol 34, p L06604). While the lake's level has dropped precipitously since last year, there has been a longer-term decline of an average of 10 millimetres per year since 1978. Evaporation has increased by an average of 4.6mm per year over the same period, while precipitation has decreased by 4.1mm.

DID YOU KNOW:

Forty billion computers are expected to be embedded within devices such as cars, home appliances and office machines by 2020.

The computer mouse is under threat from the computer ring. Created by a team of students at the Worcester Polytechnic Institute in Massachusetts, the finger ring emits ultrasonic pulses that are picked up by five receivers on a computer monitor. Based on the delay in the pulses' arrival at the different receivers, a processor determines the position of the wearer's finger and converts it to a cursor position on screen.

THE PERFECT SPOT FOR OTHER EARTHS:

Water vapour and hydrogen gas have been found around a young star in exactly the place you'd expect to find Earth-like planets. Josh Eisner at the University of California, Berkeley, looked at the spectrum of light coming from the protoplanetary disc around a star approximately 500 light years away and found spatially distinct rings of gas, water vapour and dust orbiting the star. The study is the first to find water vapour in the region where wet Earth-like planets are thought to form. The idea is that water sticks to dust grains, which accumulate to form planetesimals and eventually planets.

Introduction to New Liquor Legislation

Background to Liquor Reform

In 2006, the State Government initiated the most significant package of reforms to liquor licensing in more than 100 years.

The reforms focus on providing more choice for consumers, but not necessarily more licensed venues; promoting greater levels of innovation within the liquor and hospitality industries; providing opportunity to the small business sector; assisting the tourism sector cater for thousands of visitors to Western Australia; focussing on and promoting harm minimisation principles; and creating a safer liquor environment.

WA Premier Hon Alan Carpenter unveiled the Government's reform package on 28 March 2006.

"The Government would put in place tough safeguards against anti-social behaviour and alcohol-related harm, while reducing bureaucratic red tape for licensees. These changes will give people more choice and encourage tourism. They will also balance people's expectations of being able to enjoy a drink responsibly with the community's right to enjoy themselves in safety," Mr Carpenter said.

Training

Mandatory Industry Training

Any person engaged in the sale, supply and service of liquor on licensed premises in Western Australia will have to complete responsible service of alcohol training.

Mandatory server training programs have proved successful in other jurisdictions of Australia because alcohol servers have the ability to decrease the level of intoxication of patrons by identifying when they have had enough, and therefore reducing the levels of harm, or ill-health caused through alcohol consumption.

All licensees and approved managers must undergo training in Western Australia's liquor laws as well as responsible service of alcohol training.

Bar staff will only be required to undertake an approved course in responsible service of alcohol, which is expected to include CD and web-based training provisions.

In conjunction with mandatory training requirements, all licensees will be required to maintain and make available to an inspector a register that contains each staff member's details including a copy of their training certificate.

Transitional provisions

All staff members who were employed at licensed premises before 7th May, 2007 will have a period of 12 months to complete the mandatory training requirements.

Staff employed after 7th May, 2007 will have four weeks from commencing their employment to complete the mandatory training requirements.

Body corporates and clubs

In the case of licensee where that licensee is a body corporate or a club, then only one company director or member of the management committee is required to undertake training in Western Australia's liquor laws and responsible service of alcohol. That person could also become the primary or principal 'Approved Manager'. Supervisory staff and bar staff will be required to undertake the training as explained above.

Occasional licences

In terms of occasional licences, the licensee, approved manager and any person engaged in the sale, supply and service of liquor will be required to undertake an approved course in the responsible service of alcohol depending on the size and nature of the event.

The Director of Liquor Licensing has the discretion to waive this requirement and determine the level of training required on a case-by-case basis.

World War Two Certificates

The World War Two Nominal Roll (www.ww2roll.gov.au) was created to honour and commemorate the men and women who served in Australia's defence forces and the Merchant Navy during this conflict.

The site contains information from the service records of some one million individuals who served during World War Two.

You may search for service record details by specifying Name, Service Number, honour places (of birth, of enlistment, or residential locality at enlistment). Once you find an individual service record you can print a certificate of service, if you wish.

Individuals were given an opportunity to have their service details excluded from the website prior to it being published. More detailed information about this, and the roll, is available at www.ww2roll.gov.au.

NATURAL DISASTER RELIEF ARRANGEMENTS

A WA Legislative Assembly Parliamentary Standing Committee Inquiry into WA's Natural Disaster Relief Arrangements - i.e. State Government financial assistance available following disasters such as the 2006 January floods - has now been completed. The Report has recently been received at the Shire.

Last year this Committee had a formal hearing here in Lake Grace and Chris Jackson, Helen Bennett and made a formal presentation on behalf of the Shire. Other community members also presented to the Committee. Many of the issues and concerns raised by the Shire of Lake Grace, especially those relating to roads relief funding were taken on board and are addressed in the Report.

If you are interested in reading the report, you can access it online at www.parliament.wa.gov.au or contact the Shire for a copy.

POSTCARDS WA FEATURING LAKE GRACE

Through the television program Postcards WA and their special series titled 'City to Country', Lake Grace joined in with the Shires of Kulin, Bruce Rock, Merredin and Wongan Hills to promote our country lifestyle.

Filming took place in and around Lake Grace with several local identities being interviewed for the show. Postcards WA normally targets the tourist and holiday destinations - this special is slightly different in that it promotes our lifestyle and is aimed at telling city folk all the good things about living in the country.

The special episode featuring Lake Grace was screened in Perth last week on Channel 9 and will follow on WIN TV at some time in the future - watch your TV guide - Postcards WA screens on WIN at midday on Sunday's.

The Shire has already received its first enquiry from someone thinking about the move from city to country!

YOUTH ADVISORY COUNCIL

Last Wednesday we held a busy bee at the Youth Station to get everything cleaned up and back into its correct place. Many thanks to Nanette Wallace and her busy band of boys, they were Harley Pittard, Cameron Bushby, Bradley Lay and Ethan Wallace.

At the meeting that followed it was decided to have the Youth Station open every Wednesday after school from 3.30 to 5.30, thanks to Nadene Owen who has volunteered to draw up a roster for us. It was also decided that some fund raising would be done to buy a new play station and games. So please keep a look out for the cake stall and raffle in the near future.

Activities that were to be followed up on were welding, night golf and spotlight.

Also a belated thanks to Mrs Phyl Dunham who sewed the knee rug together for us. The knee rug shown in the photo was started last year at one of our activity nights where Tania Spencer taught the members knitting. The members that were involved were, Olivia Jackson, Harley Pittard, John Hendry, Jayne Argent and Lisa Clarke. Thanks also to some of the supervisors who knitted some squares as well. The knee rug will be donated to the hospital.

LAKE GRACE DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Kindergarten

Our aim for the children from the beginning of the school year has been to establish good rapport and to assist them settle into the rules and routines of the centre.

The children have learnt to work and play co-operatively together. They have also developed their fine motor skills and are able to complete puzzles, make various items from play dough, build structures from the blocks, put together various manipulative equipment, cut around defined boundaries, draw detailed pictures and be creative whilst painting.

Some of the other skills the children have developed are learning their colours, shapes, counting, number recognition to 10, rhyming words and having a go at writing their own name.

Whilst the children are immersed in a teacher facilitated educational program we endeavour to keep the program both stimulating and exciting for each child.

We have a great group of children who are able to work and play co-operatively together. These young children need to be carefully nurtured as they will be future leaders in the Lake Grace community.

Farm Organisations Memberships Decline

Farm organisations who claim to represent wheat growers now admit their membership is so low they cannot afford to affiliate with their national body the NFF.

The announcement by Simon Ramsay of the Victorian Farmers Federation that state groups will need to cut funding for the NFF's Canberra operations and some of its peak commodity councils (Funding for farming groups in doubt ABC Rural News 13 June 2007) and farm groups saying they cannot afford to keep the NFF afloat, with membership income down to the drought and apathy (ABC Rural News 14 June 2008) has drawn comment from Wilson Tuckey.

State farm organisations who have promoted 1930s responses to today's market place are losing members rapidly but still claim the right to be heard in the halls of Canberra as the voice of the people who decline to be members.

"They might ask themselves if their support for a company, whose mismanagement of the 15m tonne 05/06 pool has denied their few remaining wheat members the opportunity of receiving a fair price, which should be approximately $100 per tonne more than the $192 per tonne on offer, has damaged their membership rather than "drought and apathy" Wilson Tuckey said

"All of their previous and present members have suffered equally and some may have retained their membership and farm viability had AWB paid them a competitive price for their 05/06 wheat" Mr Tuckey said.

"Furthermore some of those lucky enough to have received rain are being prevented from sowing a crop due to financial pressure because AWB has declined to pay the final instalment on that 05/06 pool, having however made sure it paid itself over $60m as a reward for its disastrous performance. It is time farmers recognized the failure of those who, like trade union bosses, impose their outdated policies upon them even through Government legislation."

Lake Grace Flood Experience Informs Disaster Relief Report

Lake Grace farmers, Shire of Lake Grace staff and Roe MLA Graham Jacobs have had vital input into a parliamentary report into natural disaster relief funds released last week. The report examines the effectiveness of Western Australian Natural Disaster Relief Arrangements (WANDRA), a range of State government relief measures to assist communities severely affected by a natural disaster.

Following the Lake Grace flooding of January 2006, Roe MLA Graham Jacobs presented a Private Members Bill, 'that the government plans to make real contributions to flood-stricken farmers in any Western Australian natural disaster assistance program'. The local member said his recommendations were already taking effect because people affected by the Esperance floods – 12 months later – were able to access a $5000 clean up allocation to deliver practical help.

The Community Development and Joint Standing Committee Inquiry into Western Australia's Natural Disaster Relief Arrangements (WANDRA) found that a $1500 consultation fund was totally ineffective and better spent on fixing boundary fencing.

Submissions to the Standing Committee Inquiry were invited from State Government Departments, local governments, farmers, business people and other relevant stakeholders. The Committee received 28 submissions including one from Shire of Lake Grace CEO, Chris Jackson outlining the experience of the Lake Grace community following the 2006 flood Seven public hearings were conducted in Perth, Albany, Lake Grace, Mullewa, and Bunbury between 5 September 2006 and 21 March 2007, taking evidence from 53 witnesses. Mr Jackson, with Lake Grace district community members Bruce Duckworth, Helen Bennett, Scott Strevett, Donald Wallace, Leanne Grant-Williams, gave evidence at the public hearing in Lake Grace.

A common theme was the inadequacy of the financial relief package for farmers and businesses, that is, the grants to obtain professional advice of $1,500, and a 4% interest rate subsidy on loans.

Mr Jackson described how a misperception of WANDRA arose after the floods of January 2006 were declared a natural disaster. There was relief among the community due to a perception of extensive financial assistance. This was not the case however, as according to Mr Jackson, there was "no real assistance available, particularly for farmers".

A major issue effecting farmers after the flood was the need to repair fencing so farms could become operational as soon as possible. In most cases fencing was not covered by insurance. Recommendation 9 of the report recognized: 'That the guidelines of the WANDRA be revised to provide for the inclusion of the cost of materials expended in the repair of boundary fences'

Recommendations 1 and 6 provide Fire and Safety Emergency Authority and Main Roads more scope to consult with the WA Local Government Association to assist local shires.

The first is to investigate more equitable means of calculating the local government contribution to road and infrastructure restorations costs and the second allows these organizations to establish 'exceptional circumstance' criteria to provide for additional assistance to local government.

"Council's submission and persistent lobbying of the State government for additional funds to repair flood damage to roads has greatly contributed to this first recommendation," said Mr Jackson.

Copies of the report are available from the Shire of Lake Grace office.

Establishment of the Lakes District Youth Care Council

On 10th January this year, people representing a number of different churches from across the region gathered in Newdegate. Their purpose was to discuss the establishment of the Lakes District YouthCare Council. Revd John Clapton from YouthCare WA (also known as The Churches Commission on Education) was also present.

At the conclusion of the gathering, it had been decided to press ahead and form the YouthCare Council which would initially cover the regions surrounding Lake Grace including Pingrup, Newdegate and Kukerin.

The Lake District YouthCare Council is affiliated with YouthCare WA which has been set up to oversee and encourage Special Religious Education in Schools (SRE) as well as providing and supporting Chaplaincy in Government schools. The dream would be for SRE to be operating in all Government schools in the district and eventually to enable the provision of a Chaplain as well.

YouthCare WA through its District Councils is the only provider of Christian chaplains to Government schools recognized by the Education Department. At present an opportunity exists for schools to apply for Federal Government funding to help support chaplaincy. It may be possible for a number of schools to share a chaplain throughout the district. The Lakes District YouthCare would be eager to discuss this opportunity with local schools.

In the meantime, the Council supports SRE teachers in schools around the district. Again with the backing of YouthCare WA and the Education Department, this gives credibility to the teaching of religion in schools. YouthCare WA oversees and conducts courses which aspirant SRE teachers must complete in order to be qualified to teach SRE.

Of course SRE was existent in some schools within the region before the founding of the Lakes District YouthCare Council. However, not since Pastor John and Chris Butler left Lake Grace around 7 or 8 years ago, has there been religious education taught in the Lake Grace District High School on any regular basis. At that time Lilia Nolan also taught at the LGDHS and we are delighted that Lilia is part of the newly formed District Council.

But in other schools around the area, SRE has been faithfully carried out for some years: Phyl Howatson has been teaching at Newdegate Primary School, Mary Bock and Alison Furphy have been a welcome twosome at Pingrup Primary, and Amanda Nenke and Jasmine Mycock have taught at Kukerin. More recently (since the commencement of the LDYCC), a trial has begun at the Lake Grace District High School to recommence SRE with Mary Bock, Alison Furphy and Amanda Nenke teaching some classes.

The Lakes District YouthCare Council believes that the presence of SRE in Schools can have a very favourable effect on a student's physical, emotional, mental and spiritual development. SRE offers confidence through life messages which affirm positive life values, offers spiritual understanding and development, encourages good self image and assists the building of sound and affirming relationships.

Teeing Off at School

Students at Lake Grace District High School have had the opportunity to take part in a six week coaching clinic run by Lake Grace's Junior Golf coordinator, Gary Frost. Ably assisted by Justin Wright and Steve Hunt, Gary was able to go through the basic steps of golf such as grip, stance and hitting with the students.

High School students had the bonus of being bussed out to spend an hour on the course. At this stage they have only been able to receive the basics as other commitments have prevented them being able to put it all into practice by playing a few holes.

Meanwhile the year 6/7 class took part in some instruction on the school oval. All part of the Go-Go-Golf training, students were taught there was more to it than walking up and hitting the ball. How you hold your stick, how you stand and the transference of your weight all come into play. It wasn't all serious though as the instructors had plenty of games up their sleeves.

One activity was to pair off with one student hitting the ball and the other attempting to catch it (plastic balls). This relied on plenty of teamwork, though many were ready to blame the other for either a lousy shot or poor catching skills. With every success the pressure was upped, as whoever was catching moved further down the oval. There were plenty of laughs with some pairings getting it together and seeming to manage the impossible.

A seven hole course was set up on the oval with par 3 through to par 5. Gary Frost said it quickly became apparent which students had already participated in junior golf lessons before.

The year 5/6 class are now undertaking the programme. For those who have been bitten by the golfing bug, the annual Graham Marsh TID Clinic will be being held on the 19th and 20th July. If you have any queries, give Mr Frost a call, he would love to hear from you.

Grains Reference Group

Are you interested in helping to further our Grains Industry?

Partners in Grain has been refunded by GRDC until 2010. Now is your chance to have an impact.

WA's Reference Group is looking to welcome new farming and industry representatives to the PinG project for its next three year term.

Now before you dismiss this, thinking you don't have the time, just read a little further because the PinG WA Reference Group isn't as taxing as you may think - you will actually get a fair bit out of it yourself!

What is the Reference Group?

The Reference Group exists because a Coordinator can't be everywhere at once. A Reference Group helps to ensure that Partners in Grain delivers what is required to your area. It is imperative to have people on the ground providing direction for projects such as these. It is refreshing for a Reference Group to have new members move through with different ideas and opinions.

What is involved?

Reference Group members meet annually face to face. All travel, meals and accommodation costs are reimbursed. Teleconferences are held quarterly which are also fully covered by the project. The main way of communication is via email. I am very sensitive to the lack of time in modern society so you won't receive a plethora of emails each week. The requirement of each email is always clearly stated.

The Chair is nominated by the Reference Group at each face to face meeting. This term, we chose to have a revolving chair rather than one chair committing to the entire length of the project. This way, a number of people get the opportunity to experience being a Chair and learn in a non-threatening environment.

Being on the WA PinG Reference Group gives you the opportunity to be involved in a National Project whilst getting professional development happening in your area. You will also receive professional development at each face to face meeting.

If you have any queries or would like an application form please contact Renaye Stokes, Development Officer for the Department of Agriculture and Food WA, 20 Gregory St (PO Box 110), Geraldton WA 6530.

Welcome to Night Watch for the fortnight, from midnight Friday 22nd June, to midnight Friday 6th July.

Astronomy is looking UP. Never look at the Sun without a proper solar filter and preferably one that fits over the skyward end as your eyes can be quickly damaged beyond repair.

On Monday 2nd of July, in Leo, the two planets Venus and Saturn will be within 0.8° of each other, with Venus the brightest in the south.

Our local star, the Sun, resides in the constellation of Gemini shining at 26.72 magnitude. Morning twilight begins at 5:40am and evening twilight ends at 6:38pm. Light takes 8.5 minutes to reach the Earth with the Sun rising 10 minutes earlier in Lake Grace than Perth.

The Moon on Sunday 24th will be at Apogee (furthest) at 404,540 kilometres from Earth at 10:15pm. On Thursday 28th, the Moon will be 0.5° south of the red supergiant star Antares (the heart of the Scorpion). The full Moon (blue moon), will be at 9:48pm on Saturday 30th June. The moon resides in Virgo on Saturday 23rd at 51%, 24th at 61%, 25th at 70% and 26th at 78%, Libra on 27th at 85%, Scorpius on 28th at 91% and 29th at 96%, Sagittarius on 30th at 99% (FM), 1st July at 100% and 2nd at 99%, Capricornus on 3rd at 95% and 4th at 89%, Aquarius on 5th at 82% and on 6th at 72%. You will notice that the Moon will spend most of the time in the night sky this fortnight.

MERCURY is in inferior conjunction (between Sun and Earth) on June 29th in Gemini and out of view. On Tuesday 3rd July, Mercury will rise in the morning twilight at 6:28am in constellation of Orion (the hunter). On Friday 6th July, Mercury rises at 6:12am at magnitude +1.0.

The very bright planet VENUS, at magnitude -4.5, is residing in Cancer in the north/west and sets Saturday evening at 8:36pm. On Tuesday 26th, Venus rises in Leo not far from Saturn. Venus sets at 8:32pm on Friday 6th June at magnitude -4.7 with a 36% disc.

MARS the red planet in Pisces rises at 2:14am Saturday morning at magnitude +0.7 with some surface detail starting to show. On Thursday 28th Mars rises in Aries. Mars rises at 2:07am on Friday 6th.

JUPITER, the giant gas planet at magnitude -2.6 in the constellation of Ophiuchus rises now well up in the evening sky after rising at 3:47pm on Saturday and setting at 5:55am on Sunday morning. Jupiter will be 6° (3 fingers at arms length) north of the Moon on Thursday 28th. On Friday 6th Jupiter sets at 4:53am and rises again at 2:51pm and can be viewed twice in one day.

SATURN the ringed planet in Leo at magnitude +0.6 sets at 9:02pm east of Venus on Saturday evening. On Friday 6th July Saturn sets at 8:17pm just before Venus.

URANUS the blue/green coloured gas planet at magnitude +5.8 resides in the constellation of Aquarius and rises at 11:05pm on Saturday evening. On Friday 6th of July, Uranus rises at 10:13pm and will be 1.9° south of the Moon.

NEPTUNE the grey/green coloured gas planet at magnitude +7.9 in the constellation of Capricornus, rises at 8:58pm on Saturday evening. Neptune will be 1.3° north of the Moon on Wednesday 5th July. On Friday 6th Neptune rises at 8:06pm. A telescope is best but a good pair of binoculars will find it.

Jupiter's great red spot is visible on Thursday 5th July for telescopes from 9:51pm to 10:51pm. The moon Ganymede will appear from behind the planet disc at 7:57pm on Wednesday 4th. On the 5th July, at 8:47pm, the Moon Europa will appear from behind Jupiter's disc. Remember Jupiter and its moons are good viewing at any time of the night as they change positions around the planet.

On the 1st of July at 6pm, CRUX (the southern cross), will be due south, high in the evening sky. The constellation of Corvus (the crow), will be high in the north sky at the same time. Corvus is the out of shape square. The stars just south of the cross is the Constellation of Musca (the fly).

Active Ageing - Farming Over 55 Workshops

There has been a good response regarding Farmsafe's Active Ageing workshops being planned for later this year. The first series of workshops will be held in Gnowangerup on the 13th September. More information regarding this workshop as well as other dates and locations will be confirmed in the coming months.

Through the funding provided from the Department of Local Government and Regional Development (DLGRD), we aim to conduct workshops that will bring together farmers over 55 to:

- Discuss how getting older affects farm work
- Discuss ideas on how to make work easier and
- Receive free information on how to make work easier

Since the first two workshops, held in conjunction with Farmsafe Australia in Narrogin and Denmark, the ideas and outcomes from these workshops are being compiled and developed into a practical resource for farmers. Those involved in the workshops have helped to develop a practical and relevant resource being produced by Farmsafe Australia and this will be used for our up-coming workshops.

We are also very pleased to announce that SafetyQuip, a local company safety supply company, owned by Michael and Imelda Kidd, have kindly agreed to sponsor our workshops by generously donating 200 pairs of Pro Lite-Grip Nitrile Foam gloves which will be given out to the workshop attendees. Thank you to SafetyQuip for their support!

We encourage anyone who may be interested in going to a workshop in your area (or if you would like more information) to please contact Michelle Darrington at Farmsafe WA Alliance on (08) 9359 4114 or email farmsafe_eo@westnet.com.au.

My Write Foot - The Maurice Lock Story

Maurice Lock was born in 1939 with Cerebral Palsy.

He was in his fifties when he started writing his story with a pen between his toes, taking a year to painstakingly cover 30 pages of a school exercise book. When he graduated to a computer, it was his big toe that tapped away at the keyboard, re-writing his memories.

Eventually a friend offered to help, and together they trawled through the pages of Maurice's amazing life. Here is a tribute to a man who faces daily challenges that most of us would never envisage, who hears a 'no' and decides on a 'yes', and who has achieved more than even he might have imagined.

Maurice shares with us his difficulties and triumphs, and seeks to raise our awareness. His wish is to encourage other people with a disability to pursue their goals and dreams. We hope that this book gives them every encouragement.

Here's part of an interview that Maurice had with Stephanie Painter from the Albany Advertiser.

This resilience, unwavering independence, has been a constant theme in Maurice's life.

When he was nearly 10, Maurice's parents left him in a South Australian nursing home while they came to WA with their four other children to look at buying a farm.

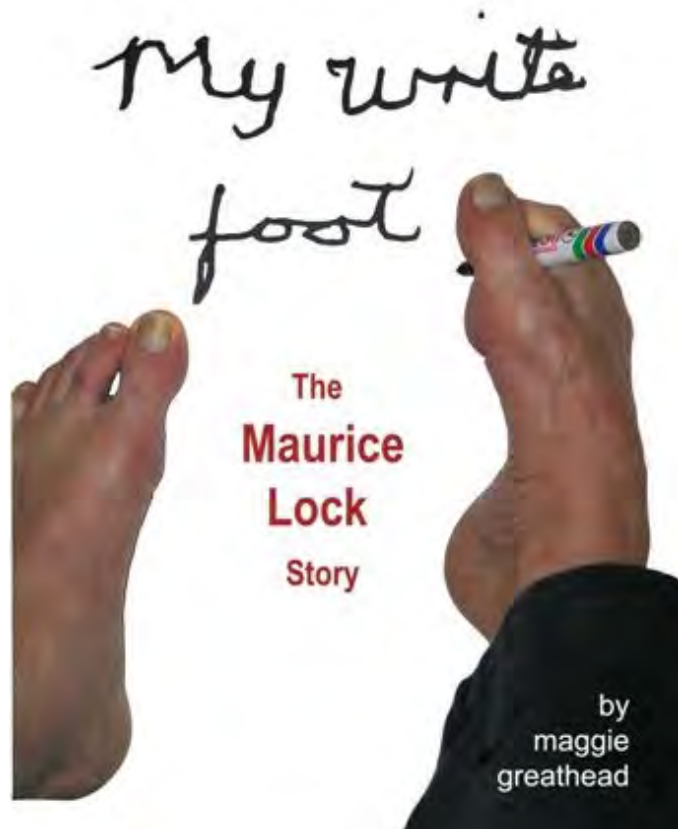

While Maurice was on his own a polio epidemic broke out in SA and the nursing home needed more beds.

The matron, in all her wisdom, decided to send Maurice on a plane to Perth - without telling his parents or grandparents.

Maurice arrived at Perth airport with nobody there to welcome him, a little note placed in his pocket by the matron reading: "Hi, I'm Maurice Lock".

Little Maurice, all by himself in a foreign place, went into care while people tried to find his parents, who had just purchased a property in the Porongurups and didn't have a phone.

Carer and friend, Maggie Greathead, said that certainly wouldn't happen these days.

Maurice has since traveled on planes by himself, though with a little more forethought and planning than his first trip.

Now living at Clarence Estate in Albany, Maurice would like to share his journey with you. Books are available from the Lake Grace Telecentre.

HUMOUR

Vet Cure

A Veterinarian was feeling ill and went to see her doctor.

The doctor asked her all the usual questions: what were the symptoms, how long had they been occurring, etc.. Suddenly, she interrupted him: "Hey look, I'm a vet - I don't need to ask my patients these kind of questions: I can tell what's wrong just by looking." She smugly added, "Why can't you?"

The doctor nodded, stood back, looked her up and down, quickly wrote out a prescription, handed it to her and said,

"There you are. Of course, if that doesn't work, we'll have to have you put to sleep."

When I Was Your Age

A young man who was also an avid golfer found himself with a few hours to spare one afternoon. He figured if he hurried and played very fast, he could get in 9 holes before he had to head home.

Just as he was about to tee off an old gentleman shuffled onto the tee and asked if he could accompany the young man as he was golfing alone. Not being able to say no, he allowed the old gent to join him.

To his surprise the old man played fairly quickly. He didn't hit the ball far but plodded along consistently and didn't waste much time.

They reached the ninth fairway, and the young man found himself with a tough shot. There was a large pine tree right in front of his ball, directly between his ball and the green.

After several minutes of debating how to hit the shot the old man finally said, "You know, when I was your age I'd hit the ball right over that tree."

With that challenge placed before him, the youngster swung hard and hit the ball right smack into the top of the tree trunk, where it thudded back on the ground not a foot from where it had originally been.

The old man offered one more comment, "Of course, when I was your age that pine tree was only 3 feet tall."

Criminal Masterminds - New Jersey

A Newark woman reporting her car as stolen mentioned that there was a car phone in it. The policeman taking the report called the phone and told the guy that answered that he had read the ad in the newspaper and wanted to buy the car. They arranged to meet, and the thief was arrested.

Mark the Spot

Two friends rented a boat and fished in a lake every day. One day they caught thirty fish. One guy said to his friend,

"Mark this spot so that we can come back here again tomorrow."

The next day, when they were driving to rent the boat, the same guy asked his friend, "Did you mark that spot?"

His friend replied, "Yeah, I put a big 'X' on the bottom of the boat."

The first one said, "You stupid fool! What if we don't get that same boat today!?!?"

Caught Stealing

A shoplifter was caught red-handed trying to steal a watch from an exclusive jewellery store. "Listen," said the shoplifter, "I know you don't want any trouble either. What do you say I just buy the watch, and we forget about this?"

The manager agreed and wrote up the sales slip. The crook looked at the slip and said, "This is a little more than I intended to spend. Can you show me something less expensive?"

Tip Top Shape

A 60-year-old man went to a doctor for a check-up. The doctor told him, "You're in terrific shape. There's nothing wrong with you. Why, you might live forever; you have the body of a 35-year-old. By the way, how old was your father when he died?"

The 60-year-old responded, "Did I say he was dead?"

The doctor was surprised and asked, "How old is he and is he very active?"

The 60-year-old responded, "Well, he is 82 years old and he still goes skiing three times a season and surfing three times a week during the summer."

The doctor couldn't believe it. So, he asked, "Well, how old was your grandfather when he died?"

The 60-year-old responded again, "Did I say he was dead?"

The doctor was astonished. He said, "You mean to tell me you are 60 years old and both your father and your grandfather are alive? Is your grandfather very active?"

The 60-year-old said, "He goes skiing at least once a season and surfing once a week during the summer. Not only that," said the patient, "my grandfather is 106 years old, and next week he is getting married again."

The doctor said, "At 106-years, why on earth would your grandfather want to get married?"

His patient looked up at the doctor and said, "Did I say he wanted to?"

Flying High

A photographer for a national magazine was assigned to take pictures of a great forest fire. He was advised that a small plane would be waiting to fly him over the fire.

The photographer arrived at the airstrip just an hour before sundown. Sure enough, a small Cessna airplane was waiting. He jumped in with his equipment and shouted, "Let's go!" The tense man sitting in the pilot's seat swung the plane into the wind and soon they were in the air, though flying erratically.

"Fly over the north side of the fire," said the photographer, "and make several low-level passes."

"Why?" asked the nervous pilot. "Because I'm going to take pictures!" yelled the photographer. "I'm a photographer, and photographers take pictures."

The pilot replied, "You mean you're not the flight instructor?"

Kids and Olds in Cars

Everyone learned something when Lake Grace Roadwise hosted a 'Kids and Their Olds in Cars' last Friday. All of the high school children from Lake Grace District High and some parents went to Lake Grace Smash Repairs to receive an eye opener on maintaining their vehicle and what happens if a vehicle is involved in an accident.

With the group split into two, consecutive talks were held with Cameron Lloyd from Maalouf Ford explaining the primary safety device...that's the seatbelt..... before moving onto the different types of airbags, their sensors and how much force is needed to set them off. With a number of vehicles in the Smash Repairs in various stages of repair, Cameron was able to show everyone the crumple zones and side intrusion bars. As technology in car manufacture moves forward there is a concerted approach towards protecting the occupant's area of the vehicle. Mr Lloyd also explained anti-lock braking.

Nick Maalouf then explained what happens to a vehicle after it has been in an accident, the panel beating and spraying that is involved. With a yard of vehicles that have been in accidents, the students were able to see how a moment of inattention can have devastating results.

While one half of the high school was deliberating over the results of an accident, the other half were finding out about keeping their vehicle on the road courtesy of Ray Bird from Stevemacs. With both a 4WD and station wagon on hand, students were shown and given the opportunity to participate in changing a tyre, checking the oil or topping up the water. Throughout there was emphasis on safety while carrying out these tasks.

As the road toll shows no signs of easing it is important as a community that we find ways of keeping our youth safe. Roadwise thanks Lake Grace District High School, Nick Maalouf, Cameron Lloyd and Ray Bird for sharing their knowledge and also thanks the students for their participation.

Alyssa Posavac tries her hand at removing the wheel nuts while Dylan Jackson and Trent Roper wait their turn.

Travel Diaries

We continue on from Day 10 of Joe and June McEncroe and Helen and Clem Bennett's travels through Africa and Barcelona.

Day 10 - We still had three days left of our hire car so we decided to make use of it and being a Sunday we hoped the roads would be quieter. So we headed into the famous wine growing region and in particular the town of Stellenbosch. It was an extremely pretty town with a major university so we drove around for some time to try and get a picture of what it would be like to live in that part of the world and it would appear that it would be a very good. The wineries spread out in all directions from the town, a bit like Margaret River so it was very difficult to choose one (or more) to visit. We ended up going to one called the Camberley because it reminded us of the Amberley down at MR. They all had elaborate security arrangements but once you got through, it was all systems go. The host was a very likeable fellow by the name of John Nel (a very good cricketer in his day) who proceeded to get us into the serious business of wine tasting. He had a variety of reds and whites and a bubbly red champagne which were all very nice but overall we thought the WA wines were better – maybe we're just biased.

We left the wine growing region and followed the coastline all the way back into Cape Town. Some of the bays and general coastline were absolutely spectacular and for anyone who has been to the Amalfi coast in Italy, this coastline would be right up there by way of comparison. Some of the built up areas reminded us of Cottesloe being that there were many beautiful houses and seaside café's etc where people were relaxing with a meal or a drink. At one point we passed by the house where the famous Cecil Rhodes once lived. Later in the drive we stopped at one of the many roadside markets where the girls bartered and purchased some wooden stick figures. We had lots of fun packaging them up and posted them home from the main Cape Town post office on the 20th February - as at the end of May we were still waiting for them to arrive!!! Finished the day once again at the waterfront where we tried to purchase tickets to go to Robben island (where Nelson Mandela was imprisoned for 27 years) but were told that there was nothing available for about a week but if we cared to present ourselves early in the morning in the next day or two we might be lucky to get tickets due to cancellations.

Day 11 – Helen's Birthday (19/2/07) - We headed down to waterfront at 7.00am and managed to get our tickets to Robben Island. The island which is about 40 minutes off Cape Town in a fast boat is not in any way pretty, in fact Rottneest island would be a paradise in comparison. We were given a full tour of the island and the prison including the actual cell in which Nelson Mandela was interred. Our guide for the prison section of the tour was actually one of the inmates, so that was particularly interesting for us. The excursion was well worth the time and effort plus it was a real learning experience for us all.

Back on the mainland we took to our hire car again and headed off to Table mountain where we caught the cable car to the top. Footnote: Helen hates this type of transport with a vengeance so she did really well to overcome her fears. What a speccy ride it was but the views from the top were even more speccy. It was a magnificent day for viewing and photography which is quite often not the case due to cloud cover. The rest of the day was devoted to domestic requirements i.e. washing but we did manage to celebrate Helen's birthday that night.

Day 12 - Our last day in South Africa - The hotel organised a tour for us of the black townships so we were away fairly early. We started at what is called the district 6 museum The museum portrayed the events of people (mainly black) who were uprooted from their homes and moved out of the city. The houses etc were then completely demolished and the land used for other purposes.

Our tour took us into various black township areas including what we came to know as shanty towns – to say it was an eye opener would be the understatement of all time. We were taken into a fully secured kindergarten where the children danced and sang for us. They were really cute little kids, full of life and reasonably well dressed considering the level of poverty in which they existed.

On the very fast boat to Robben island with Table mountain in the background.

School children in a black African township singing and dancing for us.

Our guide also took us to see a traditional witch doctor but we only stayed long enough to be courteous as we reckoned there were better places to be than surrounded by all sorts of potions and bones and unmentionables hanging from hooks etc.

Went to a restaurant that night where we sampled many of the African wildlife such as ostrich, warthog, springbok, wildebeest, kudu and crocodile. Most of it was OK but probably won't need to do it again – Joe didn't go too much on the Springbok.

Day 13 - Our parting impressions of South Africa judging from the small part of the country that we saw is that it has a lot to offer but we always had in the backs of our minds the need to be very cautious about what we did and where we went because of the high crime rate. However in saying that we saw nothing to particularly worry us other than one incident in Kynsna that did give us a bit of concern for the safety of our hire car. Overall we left South Africa with mixed emotions in that it has a vast discrepancy between the have's and the have not's. Many of the people we spoke to said that the government is endeavouring to correct the imbalance but from what we witnessed it will take some considerable time. Perhaps the forthcoming soccer World Cup in around three years time could be a catalyst for an improvement to the general living standards. So as much as we could have easily stayed longer, it was bye bye to S A and hullo to Zanzibar. We drove our great little(ish) hire car to the airport where we left it with the hire car company. The car at around $200.00 a day was reasonably expensive but we all thought it was worth its weight in gold just for the freedom of movement it gave us, plus almost all the roads we travelled on were A1

Zanzibar - After a two hour flight from Cape Town to Jo'berg and a five hour flight from Jo'berg we arrived at the island of Zanzibar which is part of Tanzania. There were no problems whatsoever here with security or customs as everything was very simple and relaxed.

A driver with a small bus was there to meet us and to take us to our accommodation at the Casa Del Mar hotel on the south eastern coast of the island, in an area called Jimbiana. The initial part of the drive was through fairly crowded rough streets but we were soon out into the less populated areas. It was dark by this time and there were no street lights and there were still many people walking, riding bicycles or moving animals, how the driver never hit anyone remains a mystery.

The trip took over an hour and we were starting to wonder if we were being hi-jacked, when we arrived at what appeared in the night to be the back of nowhere. Anyhow the accommodation turned out to be very good but when we were informed that it was a no alcohol area, Clem and Joe almost had a coronary. It did not take them long to find a source to acquire a cold beer so they ended up happy. Note: Alcohol is not readily available in most areas of Muslim counties as we were to also find out in Morocco and Egypt.

Day 14 - We had planned to have a look around the island but being that we were so isolated we decided to make the most of where we were and just relax for two days. Unfortunately there was no pool and we soon found out that it was not possible to swim during the main part of the day as the tide took the water way out to bilio. The temperature was bearable at the resort (no air conditioning) but once you moved even 100 metres from the coast it turned into a veritable spa.

So we laid around read books did the post card thing. June had a massage for 10,000 shillings, about 10 bucks. She said it was OK but nowhere near as good as Narelle's.

Day 15 - We went out on a dhow which is the local form of sea transport. They are canoe like vessels that are hollowed out of mango trees and fitted with outriggers – quite ingenious how they are put together. The crew (2 guys) took us about two kms off shore where we all had a snorkel around in the most crystal clear blue waters that you are ever likely to see. Lots of colourful fish and generally very enjoyable

Rest of the day was a bit of a bludge but June and Clem learnt how to play a local board game called – BAOO.

Day 16 - After saying our farewells to the friendly staff at the hotel we were driven to Stonetown which is the population centre of Zanzibar. We had organised a day room where we could leave our back packs while we went touring. We found ourselves a guide who's name was Ali – it seemed that every second person that you met was either an Ali or a Mohamed. Stonetown has a very colourful history although not necessarily for all the right reasons as it was considered to be the centre for the black slave trade. The city itself apart from being very hot was also quite untidy and dirty plus the hawkers were constantly at you to sell you something. Ali walked us around and showed us the "House of Wonders" which was built by Sultans in 1800's. He also took us to the where the slave markets were held in the earlier days. There we saw where they would hold 70 or 80 blacks all chained together in these tiny little dungeons. Mans inhumanity to man never ceases to amaze.

By this time we were very hot and thirsty so we headed for a restaurant/bar called Mercury's – Named after Freddy Mercury. We had only just had our drinks served when in walked Chris and Chelsea. We only had a couple of hours with them before we had to get organised to go to the airport but it was a great to exchange notes on what everyone had been doing. Amazing to meet your son and his girlfriend in a bar halfway across the world!!!

Impressions of Zanzibar: From what we came across we were a little disappointed as the beaches we saw weren't as good as we thought they would be and Stone Town was quite grubby. We have heard that the beaches and the accommodation at the northern end of the island are very good so we will just have to re-visit and find out for ourselves.

Tanzania - After a 50 minute flight we landed at the Kilimanjaro airport and were then driven to our accommodation at the Imperial hotel in the city of

Day 17 - The hotel was a starting point for many of the safari companies and was busy with the various guides meeting up with their tourist groups. Our guide for the next 5 days was "Zuberi" who worked for a company by the name of Leopard tours. Anyhow after a brief getting to know each other, we headed off into the city to pick up some supplies with the main one being umpteen litres of bottled water. We also had lots of fun trying to find an ATM that would dispense money. Being only a small group - 5 including Zuberi has its advantages over larger groups in time savings and we were able to get on the road to Lake Manyara which is about a 4 ½ hour drive to the south east. When we arrived, Zuberi popped the roof of the land cruiser so we could stand for viewing and taking of photographs. We then drove into the park which was partly beautiful rain forest and partly plains surrounding a lake. There were so many animals in here there would be too many to name. They ranged in size from tiny baboons to elephants and hippo's.

We were then taken to our tented accommodation where we thought we were going to rough it for a night but this wasn't to be as it turned out to be 5 star. The tent had an en-suite with all the trimmings and was set in a marvellous location, with an excellent open restaurant. A real pity that we only had one night here.

Rural Crime Prevention- Farm Machinery Theft

The theft of farm machinery causes huge personal and financial losses for farmers. Tractors, ploughs, headers, augers, generators, welders, motor bikes and quad runners are attractive targets for thieves. The theft of machinery parts, such as header lights, batteries and radios from tractors is also a problem for many farmers.

The costs are high for farmers in replacing stolen equipment. If the theft occurs during the critical periods of planting or harvesting, loss of productivity can compound the total financial damage.

What can you do.

There are some things you can do to reduce the opportunity for theft. Although several of the following suggestions may seem somewhat drastic and time consuming they are worthwhile if a theft is prevented. You are the best judge of whether it is worth the time and trouble in your particular situation.

Protecting Farm Equipment

It is sometimes necessary to leave equipment in a paddock overnight. If it is possible, park machinery out of sight of a public road, behind trees or a hill. Proximity to roads increase the probability of theft or vandalism. If possible, position machinery so it can be seen from the farm house or alternatively, park it near a neighbour's house.

- Never leave keys in machinery.
- The doors of machinery with cabs should be locked.
- To prevent thefts of radios from machinery, try to have radios installed that operate only with a security code that is connected to the auxiliary power of the machine.
- When there is a break down, if possible return the machinery to the main shed area. Too often farmers pull down a tractor in a paddock, leave it unattended while seeking replacement parts, and return to find several parts missing.
- Always know where your equipment is located on farm.
- Try to secure or immobilize vehicles or equipment when not in use. Machinery left in paddocks overnight or for longer periods should be disabled by removing the distributor cap or battery. Machinery stored outside or in remote sheds and only used in certain times of the year should also be disabled in this way.
- You can chain machinery together or to a tree or other strongly anchored objects.
- You can chain and lock the front wheel to the rear wheel or axle.
- Where possible, large farm machinery not in use should be stored in a secured shed, preferably in sight of a farm house or grouped in a highly visible area.
- Build a fence enclosure that can be padlocked shut for heavier equipment that cannot be secured in sheds.

- Ensure all machinery and pieces of equipment are marked with identification and maintain an inventory with a description, a record of the serial number, chassis and model numbers of machines.
- Use metal engravers or a welder to mark machinery, vehicles and equipment with 'WA' for your state and your driver's license number or your stock brand.
- Photograph or video machinery and valuable items of equipment and store them with the inventory.
- Use lockable fuel caps
- Secure tools and tool boxes.
- Stolen goods need a ready market. Be wary of offers that are too good to be true - they usually are! Report all suspicious incidents to Police

Clontarf Take Home the Goodies

For football fanatics it was a dream weekend, the opportunity to watch hours of Australian Rules, marveling as players pushed themselves to get their team across the line. Clontarf College took home the honours for the 2007 Great Southern Colts Carnival, but not before giving supporters plenty of entertainment. Great Southern picked up their game in the last quarter before going down to Clontarf by 24 points. Bitterly cold weather, with just a touch of what was rumoured to be rain gave players extra reason to run.

The Colts Carnival was an extraordinary example of how rural communities pull together, hours of volunteer time was put into organizing sponsors, accommodation, support staff, officials, statisticians and endless supplies of food. Harry Reeves, sponsor of the trophy for best player of the carnival, commented that the Carnival had found a home in Lake Grace and that the Carnival's outlook was safe while it remained in a small country town which was prepared to work so hard for its future.

Finishing order for the weekend was Clontarf, Great Southern, Goldfields, Upper Great Southern, Ongerup, Esperance, Eastern Districts and Avon. Final score for the grand final was Clontarf 14 10 (94) to Great Southern 10 10 (70). Best on ground for the grand final was Ken Fitzgerald from Clontarf; while Kyle Flett from Great Southern and Chayne George from Goldfields were joint fairest and best for the Carnival. Umpire of the Carnival was Chris Norton.

On a local note Ongerup (19 18 132) won their game against Avon (4 9 33) with Garry Leo being one of the best on ground. In the game against Great Southern (10 10 70) Ongerup (8 9 57) went down, Daniel Trevenen was one of the best on ground while Peter Burbridge kicked a goal. On Sunday Goldfields (14 8 92) gave Ongerup (7 9 51) the run around; Peter Burbridge and Garry Leo were recorded as being two of the four best on ground for Ongerup.

LAKE GRACE JUNIOR GOLF NOTES

The last couple of weeks of junior golf has seen good numbers attending our coaching sessions and some very encouraging results coming forward, especially from the girls. Bodie, Lachlan and Brendan played well along with Adam, Reece and Izzy, but the girls prevailed again. Well done to Caitlyn, Bianca and Jamie.

Last week the weather was a little more like winter with a cool breeze blowing in our faces, the big winner this day was Nicholas Dunham closely followed by Brodie Cameron. Nicholas cleaned up by taking out the Rhynie award as well. Our other group winners were Adam Hunt with Jade Cameron and Izzy Seward joint runners up in the putting competition. Great to see everyone improving each week.

Don't forget our next major event coming up is the Graham Marsh Junior Golf Foundation Talent Identification Clinic on the 19th and 20th of July. Watch this space.

PINGRUP JUNIOR HOCKEY NOTES

We have a win on the board!!! On Saturday we met with Gnowangerup in our first game in Lake Grace, we were sporting our new bibs—they looked very smart (although I think they only showed how out of position we play).

It was a good game with John Curtin scoring three goals and Brianna McWhirter scoring her first ever goal!!!! Brad O'Neill stepped up to be goalie and didn't see much, if any action, thank you Brad. We will see you all ready to train on 20th - hopefully we can have a run on a marked field.

LAKE GRACE GOLF NOTES

On the 10th June the men played their annual aggregate stableford draw for partner's competition. This event has been held for many years and the golf club has been very fortunate to have one of our Life Members, Kingsley Strevett carry on the tradition.

Strevy and Justin drew out the pairs once all the cards had been checked. The top three groups were only separated by one point. The winners of the day were Justin Wright and Chad Stanton on 72 points. Good scores of 38 points a piece went to Andrew Hunt, Gary Frost and Kevin Eggers, all three had a quick trip to the handicappers office. There were two ladies who played a stableford competition with Helen Hunt scoring 33 points.

The golf club would like to thank Kingy and Anna for their support of the golf club. The Westpac ball on 4 went to Marcus Owen, Milton Reynolds got the CSBP travel mug on 6 while Murray Stanton won the Tyrepower bag on 15 and the Hotel ball on 18.

This week our very proud sponsor was Maalouf Ford, thanks to Nic and Laure Ann for their continued support. We played a stroke competition because Nic sees that as pure golf. The men's winner was Andrew Hunt with a good score of 85-15-70. Well done Andrew. The runner up on a count back was Chad Stanton with a score of 86-16-70. The ladies winner with 107-34-73 was Stephanie Lay. Gary Frost won the Westpac ball on 4, Andrew Hunt won the CSBP travel mug on 6, while the Tyrepower bag (polo shirt included) on 15 and the Hotel ball on 18 also went to Gary Frost.

Don't forget next week is THE BIG ONE, TURKEY DAY. This event stems back decades, for some the only way to get on a honour board, the others try to avoid the feathers. Grab a partner and come out for the most prestigious day on the calendar. A casserole tea will follow the celebrations and gobbling. Please bring a casserole to share if playing.

Peter and Lyn Taylor are back for the event they sponsor and love so much. This year will be their last. Spud thinks the boys will keep on the tradition; they might even turn up for a hit. Don't worry if you haven't a partner we will team you up on the day.

The following Saturday is the men's Nyabing Open Day, on Sunday we have a stableford competition sponsored by Justin Wright and Elders Insurance.

On car washing this week (23rd and 24th June), are Kristie Pinney and Annie Korosec, the following week (30th June and 1st July) will be Jane Bushby and Tanja Edevang, arrange your own swaps if you can't do your turn, but please let me know. There is a new car washing roster handed out last week, changes have been made, contact me if you haven't got one.

Well done to the B grade who have broken the rather long drought with three goals scored in the last two games. Keep it up!

The hockey club will be catering the steak teas at the Club on Saturday 30th June.

We will be moving the first field and marking out the second field on Tuesday next week, if you are available to help please contact me as soon as possible. The more helpers the quicker we will get it done.

Thank you to all the girls who gave up their Sunday to help in the canteen at the football carnival. Congratulations to the Lake Grace Pingrup Football Club for a very well run weekend.

Good luck to all the girls playing in Country Week this year. Representing Lake Grace in the Roe Districts team in Division One we have Fleur O'Neill. In Division Three, Danielle Robertson, Donna Hendry and goalie Jenna Taplin and in Division One Veterans, Jodi Pearce, Belinda Bowron, Di Desmond and Anna Taylor.

Thanks to Junior Boys for having a game against our seniors at training, it was great to see everyone turn up we might even do it again soon.

LAKE GRACE KINDY/PRE PRIMARY

A big thank you to everyone who supported our Cake Stall – we banked $791.00 to go towards our new equipment.

A Big thank you to all our Mums, who did a great job with cooking and presentation of the plates.

We would like to thank the Plaza Shopping Complex for letting us set up inside the building as the weather on Thursday was very cold wet and blowy.

Thank you to Murray & Cobi Stanton for the donation of boys and girls lucky dip bags.

Hello Everyone,

I hope you had a good week.

I have been making rugs for my family and friends. I gave the other rugs to the Lake Grace Hospital for the old people and they like them a lot.

On the 28th May we went to Badgebup for the CWA function and they had a craft competition. The craft they had there was very good. It was a very good day.

That's all for now. Till next time remember to keep crafty.

From Sheryl Smith
