The Lake Grace Pingrup D Grade football team have reinforced their dominance in the Ongerup Football Association by winning the grand final for the third consecutive year.

After a marginal loss of seven points in the second semi final to arch rivals Ongerup, Lake Grace Pingrup were forced to play off against Newdegate in the preliminary final. A resounding win against Newdegate saw them once again front up against Ongerup on Saturday 11th September.

Players in the change rooms were cool and calm, confident of their ability to get out on the field and bring home the flag. The same lack of nerves was not mirrored by anxious Dads and Mums pacing on the boundary.

"It was a resounding team effort with the players spurring themselves on" said coach Donald Wallace. "They really wanted to win it and they did it for themselves".

Some excellent team play saw Lake Grace Pingrup keep Ongerup scoreless in the first and third quarters.

The sound of the final siren brought an exuberant response from the players and sighs

- 1 We're all experiencing that lotto feeling at the Telecentre due to the good news that lotterywest is providing $8,500.00 toward the cost of a new copypainter. The new printer will mean better quality of print, pages with photos can be printed rather than photocopied (a big financial saving for the Telecentre) and there will be no need for swearing or tantrums from the operator. So a huge thank you to lotterywest, those organisations that provided letters of support and to Michelle Slarke for writing the grant.
- 1 I'm on the prowl for old photographs or documents relating to the Lake Grace school, works in progress at the school or events that have been held at the school - if you have any please let me know. I would also like to be able to scan photographs and documents related to the outlying schools such as Beenong, Tarin Rock, North Lake Grace, North Burngup, Pingaring and Red Schools.
- 1 The Telecentre has obtained a grant to run holiday activities for school children during the second week of the school holidays. We will be running a jewellery making workshop and a skateboarding instruction/competition. Please phone in if you are interested in being part of either/both of these programmes.
- 1 Copies of the applications for the 'Mentoring' and 'Young Leaders' programme are available at the Telecentre. Feel free to ask for a copy.

Frost Facts From September 11

On the nights of the 11th and 12th September, two major frost events occurred.

At the Newdegate Research Station on the 11th September there were 11 hours below 2 degrees and 7 hours below zero with a minimum of -3.7°C. On the 12th September there were 9 hours below 2 degrees and 4 hours below zero with a minimum of -2.5°C. Remember these were taken at 1.2 m from the ground, therefore ground temperatures could be 2°C lower than the recorded temperatures.

The graph below shows the duration of time below zero degrees.

The intensity and duration of the frost events has lead to widespread stem frost and some head frost damage to crops.

Stem frost damage has been greatest in wheat crops with damage occurring in two areas of the plant. At the peduncle (below the head and before the first node) and between the top two nodes.

Stem frost can occur in degrees of severity and in the time since the event the damage level has varied widely within and between paddocks.

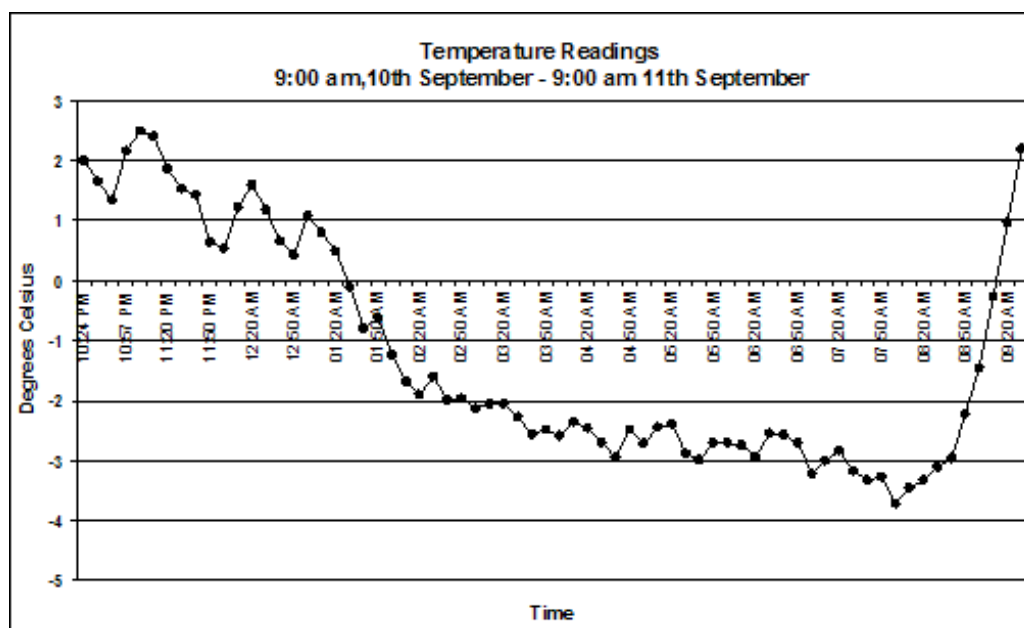

Head frost of wheat in the boot stage and barley heads in the boot stage through to flowering have been evident (white heads or white florets in the head).

Pod or seed abortion has occurred in canola, field peas and lupins.

Average wheat yield potentials prior to the frost event were in the range of 1.6 - 2.2 t/ha for wheat and these could now be in the range of 0.6t/ha to 1.2t/ha.

It is estimated that 200,000 - 400,000 tonnes of wheat could have been lost in the frost event which at $170/t farm gate price is $34 - $68M.

NURSERY

YOUR ONE STOP NURSERY SHOP !!!

Early Days at Lake Grace by H Bishop

We continue on with the second instalment.....

Within three days Messrs. Frank, Slarke and Bishop had secured houses adjoining, and in a terrace, in Brown Street, East Perth, in that section between Claisebrook Road and the Railway. Perth could be reached on foot by a footbridge over the railway to Pier Street, and then through an open market (countless little stalls under a main roof, where every type of merchandise, particularly grocery and greengrocery, was sold) through into Stirling Street and so to the Beaufort Street bridge. This open market building afterwards became, and still is, Attwood Motors, but whether the original building was adapted or completely demolished and rebuilt, I am not sure. Anyone who has been to this section of Brown Street even in the last 30 years will find it hard to believe that in 1911 it was a very pleasant little street lined on each side with pepper trees, the scent of which gave the newcomers a sense of being in the Orient. The Autumn weather was to us very much like the summers to which we had been accustomed. We had 160 Brown Street – 4 rooms with a passage straight through, and the back verandah partly closed in, electric light and water laid on, no deep sewerage or bathroom, a reasonable back yard, brick walls and iron roof, for 10/6d. a week. The time – 9 months – which I spent in East Perth, has left me with many happy memories, and my school days for six months of that time at East Perth State School were the happiest school days I had. They were also the last, and I turned 11 years of age during that time.

About four doors from us in Brown Street, in a rather superior house, lived a Mr and Mrs Fisher and two sons, and within a few days of our arrival Mrs Fisher called on us to invite the boys to join the Saint Bartholomew's Church choir, the whole family to attend church and to welcome us to Western Australia. The Fishers were very nice people indeed. Mrs Fisher, a lovely woman full of kindness and good works, but not a 'do-gooder', remained a close family friend until her death. Even when I was 19 or 20 a visit to Perth would not have been complete without a call on the Fishers. "Pa" Fisher, as he was always known, was an easy-going Micawber-like character, addicted to making puns on all and every occasion. Puns are not usually very popular but to us, the boys, brought up in a very strict home and even stricter schools, "Pa" was good fun.

During this time I learned to swim in the Swan River almost under the Bunbury Bridge – not by years of expert tuition, but by getting out of my depth, struggling to get back, and finding that I could swim.

But I cannot leave the Fishers without little note and a short humorous story. Lake Grace was not even a name to us at that time, but later Sydney Stubbs, MLA, member for Wagin, was well known to us all, and he was Mrs Fisher's brother. The story concerns one of their two sons. One day as I was bathing in the Swan I observed Charley sailing along in a very small yacht. I remember he was dressed in a bathing suit and a straw boater, and just as he passed my a sudden little squall capsized the yacht and my admiration turned to dismay. However, Charley stepped out and stood in about 18 inches of water, and that is when I learned that the bottom of the Swan is in many places very close to the top. In later years Charley was an executive of Perpetual Trustees. He and his brother Clarrie went to the 1914-18 war, but Clarrie did not return.

During the first couple of months Messrs Slarke, Franks and Bishop haunted the Lands Office and were very disgusted that land was not immediately available as they had expected from promises made in London, but by the end of July, 1911, all three had been allotted adjoining virgin blocks about four miles south of what is now Lake Grace township. Actually, Mr Bishop was at the same time allotted a block at Kuminin, but decided to take the one at Lake Grace. At this time the railway had its terminus at Dumbleyung. As the lake, Lake Grace, could not be crossed, it was necessary to skirt it at the North end, and the distance to be traversed by road was 59 miles from the terminus. A road – and by 'road' it is intended to indicate that the timber had been cleared in a straight line – did exist for 15 miles east of Dumbleyung, and after that tracks only existed, made by sandalwood cutters who had combed all this country for sandalwood for many years past, by surveyors who had surveyed the blocks, and by a few settlers scattered in the vicinity of what is now North Kukerin. Water was available at intervals of 20 or 30 miles in soaks and dams. Individual blocks of land could be identified only by corner pegs which had the official number engraved on them.

In August, 1911, Messrs Slarke and Bishop, travelling with two horses and a spring cart, arrived at the two blocks which were soon named respectively "Easton Neston" and "Brockham", and proceeded to build a camp on the former, about 50 yards from where the Slarke home now stands. Together with Bill Franks, brother of John, who had in the meantime arrived from England, they built humpies for each other and chopped down the timber on 56 acres where the two blocks joined, by the end of the year. They then returned to Perth, Mr Slarke to pick up his family and Mr Bishop to await the arrival of an Australian son, Ted, who was born in Brown Street on January 28th, 1912.

During the first four months, several trips to Dumbleyung must have been made for roofing iron, tank material, and horse feed, natural grass being practically non-existent, but details of these are not known. Each trip would have required at least five or six days.

At some time prior to this, probably in the previous year, three men had visited the Lake Grace area and selected areas on which they desired to settle, and when the district was surveyed these areas were pegged and allotted to them. The men concerned were Patrick James (Paddy) McMahon, Ernest William (Ern) Bennett, and John Scott (Jack) Bennett. Without doubt, these were the first settlers and the district was very fortunate indeed in having experienced men of this calibre to set an example to those completely ignorant of conditions which obtained at that time and in that place. Paddy McMahon already had a farm at Merilup, south of Kukerin, but over the course of a few years concentrated all his interests in Lake Grace. Ern and Jack Bennett were members of a South Australian Family who had pioneered the Dumbleyung district. These men deserve more than a passing reference, and I am happy to have this chance to pay a tribute to them, not only for what they did, but for what they were.

Paddy McMahon was a colourful character, an Irishman, and in some ways as Irish 'as the pigs of Donegal', who was born in Victoria and as far as I know was never anywhere near Ireland. A big man, about 6 feet and 15 stone, very deliberate of speech, his greatest delight was always to pull someone's leg, and with new chums abounding he had plenty of scope until it was realised that everyone must be on the lookout for legpulling when he was in the group. After making some outrageous statement he would stand with a completely dead-pan face for some seconds and then burst into a huge guffaw which could have been heard half a mile away. I have heard, and I believe it, that in Ravensthorpe as a young man, at a sports meeting, he competed in all the men's events, from running, jumping to log chopping, and won them all. But above all things Paddy loved to talk and in his later years, after Lake Grace was a township, he would invariably be found on the Post Office corner every Thursday (which was train day) exchanging conversation and quips with all who passed. In my last ever talk with him he said: "Harry, I must be getting old; I can't talk like I used to."

To illustrate this love of conversation a tale was told, and while I don't believe it entirely, it could possibly be true.

He had called at a neighbour's farm one evening and stayed so late that he was prevailed upon to stay the night. At this time his mode of transport within the district was riding a draught stallion named 'Sandy', and at 8 o'clock the following morning Paddy saddled Sandy, led him over to the house and placed his left foot in the stirrup preparatory to mounting. The few words of farewell became many, and at 12 o'clock he removed his foot from the stirrup and stayed to lunch.

He was full of homespun wisdom and humour, without a mean or petty fibre, and his like will not be seen again.

SCIENCE AND STUFF

Headless Find: The oldest cemetery in the Pacific Islands could yield clues about the first people to colonise the region. Thirteen headless bodies of the Lapita people have been unearthed at a burial ground in Vanuatu dated to 1200BC, it was announced on 27th August.

Watch out Tokyo: There is a 90% chance that Tokyo will be devastated by a magnitude 7 earthquake in the next 50 years. Japan's earthquake research committee made the prediction on 23rd August based on an analysis of data from the five quakes of magnitude 6.7 to 7.2 that have struck the Tokyo region since 1885.

Warm and Wet: Europe is warming more quickly than the rest of the world, and its winters will disappear by 2080, says a European environment agency report issued on 18th August. The agency warns of devastating consequences including more frequent heat waves, flooding, rising sea levels and melting glaciers.

Off-roaders kick up desert storms; as four-wheel drives replace camels in deserts around the world, they are leaving the deserts' fragile surfaces scarred, eroded and blowing in the wind. Fifty years of satellite imaging reveals that dust storms originating in areas such as the Sahara have increased tenfold. Desert surfaces have been stable for thousands of years because they usually have a thin layer of lichen or algae, or gravel from which the fine sand has blown away. Increasing use of landcruisers and similar vehicles is scarring this protective surface layer. Once these surfaces are breached you get down to the fine sand again, which can be picked up by the wind. Every year up to three billion tones of dust is blown around the world. Saharan dust has destroyed coral reefs 6000 kilometers away in the Caribbean. Dark dust deposited on Greenland's ice caps absorbs heat and melts the ice, raising sea levels. Meanwhile dust storms in northern China may be carrying radioactive particles from the Lop Nor nuclear test site over Beijing and beyond. (Finding reported at the International Geographical Union congress in Glasgow, UK, on 19th August).

"We noticed a bear sleeping on the common lawn and wondered what was going on until we discovered that there were a lot of beer cans lying around". Lisa Broxson, a worker at the Baker Lake Resort near Seattle, on a bear that passed out after drinking 36 cans of the local brew. (Reuters, 19th August).

Crop health checker stems water pollution: A sensor that calculates exactly how much nitrogen a crop needs is slashing fertilizer use in field trials. The system will not only save farmers money but also reduce fertilizer run-off and so reduce nitrate pollution of water courses, which is a serious problem.

The system, which is mounted on a tractor, shines rapid pulses of red and infra-red light onto the leafy canopy of the crop, and sensors detect the reflected light. Healthy leaves absorb red and near infra-red light, but the stressed leaves of undernourished plants reflect more infra-red light than healthy ones, so comparing the ratio of infra-red to red in the reflected light enables the system to work out how much foliage there is in a patch of field and how healthy it is. It can then calculate how much fertilizer to apply. Every summer the run-off of nitrates into the Mississippi river causes a "dead zone" of oxygen-depleted water, which can cover more than 18,000 square kilometers in the Gulf of Mexico, just as it does in Australian rivers and lakes. The system is now being tested on 500 hectares of crops at 12 locations in the US, but earlier smaller-scale trials have shown good results. One trial on 13 hectares of corn in Nebraska found the system could reduce fertilizer use by more than 100 kilograms per hectare. The system costs around $2000 and $3000 US.

Seti@home: was started in May 1999, looking for signals of extra-terrestrial intelligence from data collected by the Arecibo radio telescope. Candidate signs are radio spikes, pulses, triplets and "Gaussians" (Signals that vary in a particular way). So far all the signals have turned out to be of earthly origin. Number of participants is 5 million, countries 226, percent of visible sky sky covered at least once is 95.7. Number of candidates are: spikes 6.2 million; pulses 592 million; triplets 562 million; Gaussians 426 million. Seti@home includes individuals, clubs, schools, companies and government agencies, including one identifying itself as the Ministry of Silly Walks, from all over the world. Bogus Business Directories Register Alarm

A localised consumer alert last week to small business operators in the state's Northwest and Midwest, has turned into a full scale consumer warning as smooth talking scammers crank up a telephone campaign of false billing.

Internet company WWW Business Search Pty Ltd and its managing director, Sandor Kranicz of Station Road Seven Hills in NSW, are allegedly behind the telephone campaign which many callers to Consumer Protection claim is trying to dupe them with hard-sell calls and false billing.

"We became concerned when small business proprietors started reporting unsolicited telephone calls from an organisation calling itself the Northwest WA Business Directory and asking if they could send invoices for $324.50 for supposed renewals in the directory", Consumer Protection Commissioner Patrick Walker said.

"Reports about a Southwest WA Business Directory from the Great Southern Region around Albany and outer metro locations near Mandurah, are indicating these operators are widening their target areas hoping to catch out overworked business people", he said.

Small businesses that have only a few staff and informal purchasing and ordering arrangements are particularly susceptible and should be on high alert.

Businesses are reporting receiving a package that includes an invoice for $324.50 and 2 computer disks asking them to copy the disks and pass them to other businesses interested in the directory.

Many of these people allege that they had not agreed to advertise in any directory before receiving this demand for payment.

Bogus publications and false billing scams plague small businesses and community groups who often do not have the same rigorous purchasing and bill paying protections in place at bigger organisations.

Previous investigations have discovered that interstate operators obtain information and advertising details from legitimate publication source and then use them to target WA business people with invoices for non-existent services or services with little or no value.

When one recipient of a false invoice wrote to the company complaining, they received a cool letter in reply telling them their business owed the money and they risked a bad credit rating if they didn't pay", Commissioner Walker said.

The Fair Trading Act covers offences relating to payment demands for unsolicited services or for making entry in directories and misleading or false representations.

"These operators obviously have a lot of nerve and I am referring their details to the Office of Fair Trading in their home state of New South Wales. Recently a false billing fraudster has been jailed there for contempt of Court, relating to Supreme Court Orders banning him from invoicing businesses.

"If you have received a demand for payment for an unsolicited service or entry in a directory that you have not authorised in writing, do not pay it and contact us immediately," the Commissioner said.

Consumer Protection can be contacted on telephone number 1300 30 40 54. Copies of false invoices or demand letters can be faxed to WA ScamNet on fax number 9282 0862.

The Lake Grace Telecentre recently received a fax from a 'new Australian Business Directory' National Enquiries. Avoid anything with a fax back to a 1900 number. Ed.

Are common household cleaners making your children sick?

A recent article (West Australian 27/8/04) reported that research had been conducted by Curtin University on nearly 200 Perth homes to determine the effects of indoor air pollution.

The effect on toddlers between six months and three years found they were four times more likely to suffer asthma than children not exposed to high levels of volatile organic compounds in many cleaning products, paints, polishes and new carpets.

The report found that compounds found in a range of cleaning products can trigger short-term respiratory problems such as asthma.

Children are most at risk because their immune system is still developing and they may also spend most time indoors.

To reduce the amount of volatile organic chemicals in your home use the following natural alternatives:

- Hot soapy water
- Vinegar—a mildly acidic steriliser strong enough to dissolve mineral deposits, grease, remove mildew and deodorise
- Baking Soda—can neutralise acids, clean shine materials without scratching and deodorise refrigerators and carpets and remove some stains
- Lemon Juice—can be used as a deodorant and to clean glass and remove stains from aluminium, clothes and porcelain. Also a mild lightener or bleach
- Eucalyptus Oil—an antiseptic and disinfectant
- Enjo cleaning cloths
- Steam cleaners

Home Care Happenings:

A trip is arranged for Friday 24th September to see "Tulips with a Difference" at Boyup Brook. Coming events include: Newdegate Garden Tour 27th October, Pingrup Patchwork 28th October, Melbourne Cup Luncheon 2nd November.

With the weather improving, now is a great time to get out and walk:

- With the dog
- To the shops
- Around the farm
- To visit a friend (and walk together!)
- At every opportunity....

For best results: remember to start slowly, stretch and then work up to a brisk walk.

Are Young Men Eating Their Vegies ??

It would seem that young men are still refusing to take notice of their mums and eat their vegies.

A survey of Victorian men aged 18 to 25 found that only 2 percent were eating enough fruit and vegetables.

Inadequate fruit and vegetable intake contributes to more diseases than alcohol, illicit drugs and unsafe sex, putting you at risk of developing coronary heart disease, stroke and many types of cancer.

LAKE GRACE DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION

The September meeting of the Lake Grace Development Association had a few less in attendance due to holidays and other commitments. However it was still a very productive meeting. Items discussed included:

On The Sheep's Back. This project is still proceeding well with sponsorship packages sent out and various groups and individuals responding. Artist Rhys Tonkins is running on schedule and still expects to be in Lake Grace by October/November.

Stationmaster's House Action Group. The renovations are continuing and the house is looking excellent. There was discussion on the need to formalise an agreement between this group and the Tourism Promotions Committee for the running of the Visitors Centre. It was decided to publicise this and do that at the October Meeting.

Tourism Promotions Committee will have their AGM Tuesday, 12th October. They are to follow up, in conjunction with the Lions, a proposed clean up at the Rifle Range and the information bay.

Youth Advisory Council. Still being well supported.

Roadwise. There has not been anyone appointed in the Narrogin office since Elizabeth, the previous Road Safety Officer, relocated.

Recycling Group. Excellent results and thanks to the whole community for supporting this very small group of people. The site in Dewar St. is being prepared for the relocation.

Accommodation Committee. The developer is waiting on Shire to prepare necessary paper work.

Community Builders. Well done for having seen a project, started so long ago, to completion. The commemoration of the plane was well attended.

Regional Ageing Lifestyle Group. At the last meeting we were still waiting on the official review from the Wheatbelt Review Committee that was to have been completed and distributed by the end of July. In the preliminary review, Lake Grace was looked on very favourably because of our committee being proactive and wanting to do something for our senior citizens.

Dedication of the clock was discussed, and it was decided that this should be done when the Stationmaster's House has been completed, we have some sheep in the street and the mosaics under the clock completed.

Preferences have been sent back to Country Arts Touring Menu.

Walk Trails were discussed. There will be a public meeting at the Telecentre on Thursday, 23rd September, at 3.00pm.

90th Anniversary of the School celebrations. Everyone is asked to notify friends and relations that this will be on Saturday 6th November. Also if you have any photos or memorabilia that may be appropriate to include in the book, please contact Suzanne at the Telecentre.

The next meeting of the Lake Grace Development Association will be on Tuesday 12th of October at 7.30p.m. in the Shire Chambers, all welcome.

YOUTH ADVISORY COUNCIL

We have had a very busy week with various activities.

Wednesday 15th we had 'Self Defence' with David Calneggia who is second in Australia for Sports Karate. This was held at the Sports Pavilion and was very well received by the members. Many thanks for Ben Bryant Shire Sport coordinator for organising this for us. Also thanks to Louise Trevenen and Debbie Beggs.

On the Friday night there was a Girls Only night.

Penny Willcocks local beautician attended to give girls demonstrations on eye brow waxing, tinting, and eyelash tinting as well as hand and foot massage. She was also able to answer many questions from the girls. Thanks to supervisors Debbie and Charlene Beggs.

Activities have been organised for this holidays, more information to be found in the Lakes Link.

Local Girl Brings Home African Experience

What began as an amazing sporting opportunity for talented netballer Rysha Bird, has turned into an unforgettable life experience.

Rysha, with students from Narrogin Senior High School and Bunbury's Newton Moore Senior High School, travelled to South Africa for the sixth annual International Sport Festival. The group, which included two netball teams and both a girls and boy's hockey team represented Western Australia at the event in Cape Town.

The schools were selected on their 2003 school Country Week results. Next year will be Perth schools' turn with an invitation again available to the Narrogin Senior High school for 2006 should they perform well next year at Country Week.

This festival brings together children from different cultures, giving them the opportunity to compete against each other and to learn and respect each other's cultural differences.

The festival consisted of competition over three days, with a rest day in between. On the rest days students were taken on sightseeing tours to safari parks, Table Mountain, museums and other venues of natural and cultural significance.

The South African Tour has exposed students to the highs of cultural and ecological diversity; being able to view 'exotic' animals while on safari then dine out on impala, springbok and kudu for the evening meal - not dishes to be found on WA menus. A tour of Lesidi, a traditional African village gave students insight into traditional dress (very little), dance, food and housing.

In the last two days of the trip all the students were billeted out to local families who had children attending either St Albans College (for boys) or Afrikaans Girls High School in Pretoria.

However with every high there is a low, the low being the extreme poverty experienced by many of those that call South Africa home.

Mr Andrew Corner, teacher in charge of the Hockey academy programs at Narrogin Senior High School, was one of the staff who accompanied the students on their South African tour. He quotes...

A population of 41 million people speak 11 official languages as they try to overcome the implications of 50 years of apartheid.

A lasting ramification of the apartheid policy is the lack of education for the majority of black South Africans.

As such they still struggle to participate in what on the face of it appears to be a bustling, strong economy.

The consequences of apartheid are visible in the black townships.

The tour took in Langer, a black township on the outskirts of Cape Town. Eighty thousand inhabitants had access to one senior high school under the old regime. Today most still do not have access to education past primary school due to a lack of family support.

The nation still bears the consequences of an oppressed underclass with military standard barbed wire everywhere to keep the have-nots out of the haves' possessions.

Eight hundred people a year are murdered....

Baking With Pamela

Muffins are great. Next to biscuits, muffins are the one food you are almost guaranteed success with. These are excellent starters to encourage young cooks. Below is the basic recipe for sweet muffins. With just this one recipe, use your imagination and the sky is the limit. I have included some of our favourite variations, or should I say our, Bed and Breakfast guests' favourites.

MUFFINS

3½ cups flour
125 g butter
4 eggs
1 cup castor sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1¼ tablespoons baking powder
1½ cups milk

- Preheat oven to 180°C.
- Sift salt, baking powder and flour.
- Rub butter into flour mixture until it resembles breadcrumbs.
- Mix together milk and eggs. Add to dry ingredients. DO NOT OVER MIX.
- Fold through fruit.
- Drop into greased muffin tins.
- Bake at 180°C for 30 minutes.
- Allow to cool, dust with icing sugar.

Variations

Chocolate Chip

Add 3 tablespoons of cocoa when sifting the flour. Add ½ cup chocolate chips instead of fruit.

Berry

Raspberries, blueberries or mulberries – 2 cups

Pear and Orange

Peel, core and dice 3 pears, steam with rind and juice of an orange. Use in muffin mixture when cold (1½ cups).

Apple

1½ cups stewed apple or finely diced raw. Add 2 teaspoons of cinnamon with the flour.

It is said that breakfast is the most important meal of the day. I'm not sure about that but after teaching for 25 years I do know that you could always tell which students had been given a "proper" breakfast. Students who ate a substantial breakfast certainly stayed awake and were more alert.

As a working mother I know how busy those mornings can be. Below is one of my favourite breakfasts. Not only because it is yummy but mostly because it can be made weeks ahead.

BIRCHER MUESLI

825 g rolled oats
100 g dried apple (skin on, sliced and roughly cut)
3 dried figs (whole, small)
1 lemon (dried & crushed to powder) - 25g
50 g burberries OR any other dried fruit, eg. sultanas, almonds etc

- Mix together.
- To use, soak overnight in apple/orange juice or milk (ensure sufficient liquid to cover muesli). Best served with Greek style yoghurt and fresh fruit.

Will keep for months in an airtight container.

Young Leaders Need Support to Make a Difference

Become a Mentor for the region wide Wheatbelt Youth Leadership Project

Wouldn't it be fantastic if young people throughout the Wheatbelt had the skills and confidence to develop, fund and manage their own youth led projects to completion?

You can help make this a reality!

The Wheatbelt Area Consultative Committee (ACC) has received funding from the Australian Government Department of Family and Community Services (FaCS) to deliver a Wheatbelt Youth Leadership Project. Young people aged 12-25 will be able to participate in leadership workshops that provide them with the skills, confidence and motivation to implement solutions and youth led projects within their Wheatbelt community.

We are seeking mentors who can provide young leaders with support and assist them to make a real difference to the lives of Wheatbelt young people.

Who can be a mentor?

Absolutely anyone can be a mentor. In fact, we would like to create a network of mentors within a whole variety of interests, skills and backgrounds. Mentors will be good listeners who are willing to share their experiences and knowledge with young people who have the potential to be future role models and leaders.

We would like to hear from as many people as possible who would like to consider being a Wheatbelt Youth Leadership mentor, including: parents; local business people; people currently involved with young people - teachers, youth group staff, volunteers; Local Government, including Councillors and employees; people involved in sports, the arts, agriculture, organising community activities/events; community organisations including Rotary, Lions and many others; young people who feel they would like to be involved and have knowledge to share with other young people and any interested community members.

What will mentors do?

The role of the mentors will be to: listen; question; offer friendship; help build self-confidence; encourage successful behaviour; share critical knowledge; challenge...

What level of commitment is involved?

Mentors may be involved in the Wheatbelt Youth Leadership project as much or as little as they like. Mentors may meet with young leaders in their community on a regular basis, or may simply be someone the young people can phone when they have a question. Mentoring does not necessarily have to be face-to-face either. Telephone and email are excellent tools to utilise in a mentoring relationship.

Will I receive support as a mentor?

Mentors will be provided with ongoing information and support to assist them carry out their role. A mentors' handbook will be provided, along with regular phone contact and meetings, if requested, with a Wheatbelt ACC staff member. Mentors will also be able to communicate with other Wheatbelt mentors to share ideas and learn from other communities.

Why should I be a mentor?

There will be many benefits from your participation as a mentor. Mentees / young people will benefit from your advice and guidance, learn new skills and be encouraged to pursue their ideas and dreams. Wheatbelt communities will benefit from having motivated and supported young people who are working toward making the Wheatbelt a better place to live and work for all young people. Finally, you will realise many wonderful benefits that come from being a mentor. Young people themselves are amazing teachers and you will learn a lot from working together with them.

How do I get involved?

If you would like to become involved in the Wheatbelt Youth Leadership project, or would simply like further information, please contact Rebecca House via:

Email - rebecca.house@wheatbeltacc.com.au

Phone / fax - 9622 2726

The first workshops are planned for September so please register your interest with Rebecca as soon as possible.

In Virgo with the sun, Mercury is unsighted.

Venus, in the morning sky rises at 3:54am in Leo, will be 0.2° south of the star Regulus on the 4th of October.

Mars, and Jupiter are also in Virgo with the Sun.

The ringed planet Saturn, in Gemini, rises around 2:33am at 0.2 magnitude and will be 5° south of the moon on 7th October.

Uranus, in Aquarius, sets around 4:40am at magnitude 5.8 will be 5° north of the moon on Sunday 26th September.

Neptune at 7.9 magnitude in Capricornus sets around 3:39am.

Pluto, in Serpens at 13.8 magnitude sets around 11:45pm.

Asteroid 4179 Toutatis, can be seen through binoculars, 1° from the bright yellow star Alpha Centauri which trails the Southern Cross (Crux).

This will happen on the 29th. The best way is to look and then check two hours later or even the night before, and the object that has moved will be the asteroid.

Constellation: A grouping of stars, usually with pictorial or mythical associations, that serves to identify an area of the celestial sphere. Also, one of the precisely defined areas of the celestial sphere, associated with a grouping of stars, that the International Astronomical Union has designated as a constellation.

On the 31st March an Asteroid passed within 6,500 kilometres of Earth, and was at the closest approach without hitting the atmosphere ever observed. It was spotted by an automated camera at the MIT Lincoln Laboratory in Socorro New Mexico. At just 10 metres across, it posed no danger, and the fact that such a small object was detected shows that surveillance systems are improving.

Redshift: Radiation from an approaching object is shifted to higher frequencies (to the blue), while radiation from a receding object is shifted to lower frequencies (to the red). A similar effect raises the pitch of an ambulance siren as it approaches. The expansion of the universe makes objects recede so that the light from distant galaxies is redshifted. The redshift is parameterised by z , where the wavelength shift is given by the factor $(1+z)$ times the wavelength.

CBH ups the ante on sampling this harvest

A review of the CBH sample acquisition and assessment procedures has been completed and changes will be implemented during this harvest to improve the consistency of sampling across CBH receival points for growers and customers.

Changes resulting from the review include trials to identify the most accurate equipment for obtaining a representative sample from grower loads and the future replacement of all manual spears with improved automated spears.

David Fienberg, Manager Grain Technology said the trials of different equipment and processes would be complete before this coming harvest with findings and subsequent changes to sampling procedures implemented during the next few years.

"Farming is a demanding business and we want to do our best to assist in keeping market opportunities open to growers by providing a fair and equitable assessment of their grain," Mr Fienberg said.

"Sampling of grain on receival is of great importance to the industry as it provides an essential link in the tracking of quality through the supply chain.

"In addition our processes provide valuable information on grain quality which is used to determine grower payments, CBH storage allocation and provides information to grain acquirers and marketers. Therefore it is essential that the systems we have in place are world class, fair and robust and support the requirements of the industry.

"Our staff are excited about the review and looking forward to receiving enhanced training and improved visual assessment aids to assist them in ensuring greater consistency in analysis across all receival points this harvest."

Mr Fienberg said that as an outcome of the review, growers will also have the opportunity to provide feedback on how well the CBH Group is meeting their needs during harvest.

"Feedback slips will be provided at each receival point and we invite growers to comment on any aspect of the business they think we can improve," he said.

"CBH is dedicated to the continuous review and improvement of its sampling procedures to increase consistency and objectivity between sites, staff performance and samples and ensure growers are getting optimum service when they deliver to CBH receival points.

"With grain quality being such an important factor in the current grain industry it is our responsibility to ensure we have effective systems in place to determine the quality of grain coming into the system so that Western Australian grain continues to maintain its high standard in this area.

"Grain quality is the responsibility of the entire industry and CBH is committed to working together with growers to ensure the industry is sustainable for future generations."

Vaccinations against Q Fever a Must

Workers in the livestock industry and other occupations that involve handling animals have been reminded that they need to be vaccinated against the potentially deadly disease Q Fever.

WorkSafe WA Commissioner Nina Lyhne said today that awareness of the need for Q Fever vaccination appeared to have waned, and a reminder was required.

"WorkSafe inspectors in regional areas have expressed concern recently that the high-risk season for Q Fever is approaching, and awareness of the need for vaccination is not as high as we would hope," Ms Lyhne said.

"Summer weather brings the potential of an increase in dust, which increases the risk of transmission of the disease, so action needs to be taken now."

Q Fever is a zoonosis (a disease that can be transmitted from animals to humans) that can lead to hospitalisation and even death.

The employees most at risk are abattoir workers, farmers, shearers, tanners and stock transport workers, as well as veterinarians and zoo employees.

The disease is most frequently transmitted via inhalation of airborne bacteria or through entry to the body via open wounds or cuts.

Symptoms can appear similar to the flu, including high fever, profuse sweating, extreme fatigue and muscle and joint pain.

A percentage of cases lead to the highly incapacitating post-Q Fever Fatigue Syndrome, which has much more severe symptoms and has been known to last for several years.

The vaccine is readily available from medical practitioners, and should be utilised by anyone in a high-risk industry.

Vaccinated workers are provided with a zoonosis card that must be carried to prove they have been vaccinated.

These cards can also provide an alert to medical staff that the carrier may have a zoonosis if, for instance, the person is not conscious.

"Employers have a duty of care under the occupational safety and health legislation to provide employees with a safe working environment," Ms Lyhne said.

"This includes protecting employees from potentially deadly diseases by ensuring vaccination is carried out and ensuring that a Q Fever card is carried by employees who may be at risk.

"Q Fever can kill, so I urge both employers and employees in high risk industries to ensure all at-risk workers are vaccinated."

LAKE GRACE TENNIS RACQUET

The tennis season is virtually upon us so you had better go on a search mission for the trusty racquet and shoes.

The tennis fixtures will be posted out shortly to previous players and new players will be able to pick up a copy from Nita's hairdressing salon.

There could be some interesting developments with social tennis this year as Letisha Marshall's survey returns showed a lot of interest in midweek twilight social tennis. There will still be social tennis on Sunday afternoons starting at 2:00pm for anyone interested. Don't worry if it's a long time since you last played or if you've never played as the focus is on joining in and having fun.

A number of our members have just completed a instructors course so there will be heaps of games and activities to play for adults and juniors alike.

We're looking at getting some form of regular competition going in the club for juniors, so come along and have a go.

There will be a social hit for anyone who's keen on Sunday 26th September and Sunday 3rd October. The Speed Shears fundraiser was a great success with Grace McCaul from the roadhouse winning the raffle.

Thanks to Geoff Sabourne for letting us use his deep fryer and to all the people who cooked roasts and helped out on the night.

Special Mention

Darren Spencer won the intermediate section of the speedshears and donated his winnings of $300 to the tennis club. Thanks very much Darren. It is really appreciated. A very generous gesture indeed.

JUNIOR GOLF

Sunday 12th September members of the Lake Grace Junior Golf Club wound up another very successful season with their Mums and Dads having a round of golf with their future golfing champions. Prior to this the trophy presentations were made to the respective winners of both grades.

Twelve year old Thomas Dunham is the 2004 Junior Champion with a gross score of 113 closely followed by last year's runner-up Ashley Mahoney with 115 off the stick.

Nett winner was Dean Rintoul, the aggressive one, while nett runner-up was Rebecca Reeves, the next Carrie Webb.

B Section winner was Ashley Morton who has a very bright golfing future, while runnerup was Nicholas Dunham who has a great swing for a 9 year old.

Most improved was Ashley Morton who has shown dedication with a great attitude.

Congratulations to all our winners and juniors, 15 in all, who participated in the 2004 championships.

We would like to acknowledge our very generous sponsors for their ongoing commitment to junior golf in Lake Grace.

Mark and Trish Cameron from Lake Grace Concrete have continued to play a huge part in our Junior Program, once again thanks to Mark and Trish.

Thanks also to Don and Pam Gardiner at Gardiner's Meat Supply for their contribution with the TID Clinic and to the Lake Grace Golf Club.

Last but not least thanks to the parents of all our Juniors for their support each week and especially at the TID Clinic.

We had 20 juniors registered in 2004, all of whom were a pleasure to coach. Special mention must be made to Jeremy, Dean and Luke for making the journey each Sunday from Newdegate.

We hope that whether you are moving on or staying with our program that you have learnt something about this great game by being a part of the Lake Grace Junior Golf Club.

Hope to see you all in 2005.

LAKE GRACE GOLF CLUB

Club Championships are over for 2004 with back to back winners, Andy Young and Helen Hunt.

A Grade men's champion, Andy Young, had opponent Craig Reeves totally and utterly flogged by the 28th hole. A 'girly' drive into the creek on 18 by Craig and some dithery putts by Andy made the lunch break very welcome.

An optimistic Helen Hunt started the day by leaving the championship trophy at home. Michelle Lay put up a valiant struggle against Helen, fortifying herself with a midmorning brew, but threw in the towel on the 31st hole.

Kevin Eggers and Mark Seaman who wanted to endure as much pain and suffering as possible forged through to the 37th hole where Mark decided enough was enough - conceding defeat to Kevin while wondering if two games of golf in a season is enough to ready you for finals match play.

Well done to all the winners, commiserations to everyone else. Hope to see you all this Sunday for closing day.

Craig Reeves

LADIES BOWLS

COACHING

We are arranging coaching for any ladies who would like to learn to play bowls or need to improve their technique; so the coaching is for new and old players.

Sunday 17th October has been suggested as a suitable date. Could anyone wanting coaching please let Lyn know as soon as possible.

STARTING DATE

The first day of Bowls for the year will be the Cancer Foundation day on Saturday 2nd October.

SHIRTS

We are also having club shirts this year with red and black on the collar and cuffs and a black swan logo.

Could everyone who wants a shirt please give Lyn one of your T shirts or polo shirt, that is a comfortable fit, so she can take it to Pat Robins as a pattern for your bowls polo shirt. If you don't want your shirt made out of T shirt material you can choose another fabric.

I would need the shirts by the week ending 26th September.

COMPETITIONS

This year the ladies will be joining with the men for all social days and club competitions. The only events we will play on our own will be Pennants and Championship events. I hope everyone has an enjoyable year.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL

Our first game was played at training on Monday 13th September at 3.30pm.

Lake Grace 1 scored 28 points while Lake Grace 2 score 52 points. Unfortunately both teams had players absent due to various reasons however the standard of play was very high. Many thanks to those brothers, sisters, and parents who all helped out in coaching, scoring and umpiring, it was very much appreciated.

Lake Grace 2 will travel to Kulin on Friday the 24th of September to play against Kulin White at 7.00pm. The bus will leave from the basketball courts in Lake Grace at 5.45p.m.

TUTTI FRUITTIS IN GRANDFINAL

The Tutti Fruitti's netball team from Lake Grace has succeeded in getting to the Grand Final of the under 15's Division two netball competition in the Katanning Association.

The game will be at 10.30am in Katanning on Saturday 25th September. Members of the team are Lisa Clarke, Rhiannon Wallace, Jayne-Marie Argent, Lauren Bushby, Nicole Chappell, Caitlyn Beggs, Jenna Tresize, Shona Garlick, Ta-leah Humphries and Letisha Baker.

This has been a long but enjoyable season for the girls and their families that have travelled to Katanning every weekend to play their sport. So if you are in Katanning on Saturday or you are looking for something to do go and watch the girls play, I'm sure they would appreciate it.

Thanks must go to coach Cassy Haskett for coaching the girls every week although being unable to travel to watch the girls. Also a big thank you to Team Manager Cheryl Chappell for doing all of the organising and stepping in to coach every Saturday.

For those who were wondering what was happening at the Netball courts last Saturday, the girls had a bye and took the opportunity to have a Mothers versus Daughters game. This was a most enjoyable game and turned into being a Mothers and Fathers and Sisters versus Daughters game with a lot of fun had by all. Many of the Mums even surprised themselves and no one received any permanent injuries!!!
