Lake Grace-Pingrup winter sports found themselves in the enviable position of playing in six of the eight games being played out on Grand Final Day; all in front of a home ground as Lake Grace hosted the end of season deciders.

They had the trifecta in football, were playing in both the junior and A Grade netball and the senior hockey; some of the players were playing across two sports so had their work cut out for them.

The senior hockey playing in the Grand Final was no surprise as they were top of the ladder having had no losses throughout the season, winning 10 of their games

Editorial

- Well those power outages made life interesting while trying to get the Links done, luckily we were really organised so we had a lot of the paper done on Monday, so while in the dark I managed to get a few cupboards cleaned and reorganised. Even managed to give my paper trimmer a bit of a much needed service (probably a couple of years past due).
- I have recently purchased a new A3 guillotine and will look at rehoming our old one (also A3). If you're interested please give me a call and drop in and have a look. It works well though lines that we use for guidance have worn off, this may not be an issue for someone else though. Blades can be resharpened. We also still have our benchtop 'stand-up desk' available if anyone would like to purchase that.
- Carers WA will be having a 'pop-up shop' out the front of the CRC (they have a van) on Tuesday 18th October. If you're wanting information or resources then please make use of the opportunity.
- Last week we had a lovely couple drop through to look for information regarding their forebears who had lived in Lake Grace in the late 1920s. They were lucky enough to drop through when we had our crochet cohort here so they picked up lots of information about Lake Grace. If you have any information about Edwin and Amy Woolley then please let us know so that we can pass it on.
- Speaking of crocheting if any students are home over the school holidays and would like to learn then they are more than welcome to come in on a Friday from 10am to midday. High school students only and it would be great if you could book in so that I make sure I have enough hooks.
- Some workshops we are looking at for 2023 are:
 - Superannuation information session
 - Marketing with Social Media
 - CANVA
 - Forklift
 - Truck Driver Training/Accreditation
- If you are interested in any of the training listed above then please let us know. 2023 will be here before we know it!!

- We still have RATs available if you're in need, we have both the nasal and the oral swabs.
- If you're a non profit group and do regular advertising and printing at the CRC then it is worth your while becoming a member. The CRC has been very generous with their time and have significantly reduced costs for non members in the past. This will have to change as it isn't fair on those who do pay a membership and we do need to keep our profit margin in the black.
- Thank you to those groups who are managing to get material into the Links, I know that it can be a fag at times however please keep in mind that this is your history. Sadly so much of our local history is disappearing as social media (which is so instant) replaces print media. I know how much people enjoy the 'Lost Lake Grace' Facebook page—sadly for future generations there won't be a lot to add if we're not careful.
- Planning is underway for the Harvest Festival; sadly we're unable to have Hayden as he has other commitments. If there's anyone out there who would like to earn some $$s and provide some background music then we would love to hear from you. We are also looking for a group or organisation that would like to do the showbags this year. We are taking bookings for stalls and displays so please let us know if you're interested.

Frankie's Headed to Frame Running Camp

By Elizabeth Castaldini

Frankie McKenzie and his family, Jeff, Symone and Jonti are looking forward to attending the Australasian Frame Running Camp and Cup being held at the University of Queensland's UQ Sport Athletics Centre.

The Australasian Frame Running Camp and Cup, being held from the 30th September to the 2nd October, is an event for learning how to frame run, find out about the benefits of frame running from leading therapists, have fun playing games, and compete in races. And for Frankie, it also means meeting and having fun with others like himself living with a physical disability. Activities that will be held over the three days include: the opening ceremony, team and individual games, mentoring sessions, learning about frame running, therapy sessions and competing in races with awards presented at the conclusion of the camp.

Above: Frankie giving the thumbs up to frame running.

Have you ever heard of frame running? Many may not have seen this sport before. Frame running, also known as race running, is a sport for people with a physical disability that results in impaired balance and are unable to functionally run. A frame runner is a three wheeled frame where the athlete is supported by a saddle and body plate. They then propel themselves forward using their feet, and steer using the mobility within their arms and/or hands. It is a great sport for giving independence and the ability to experience the feeling of running when, someone like Frankie who was born with cerebral palsy, may normally be in a wheelchair, walker or have difficulty walking independently.

Symone and Jeff feel it is important that all their children are given equal opportunities to participate in activities that they enjoy. Frankie has been participating in frame running in Perth through Rebound WA, who specialise in sports for people with a disability, after being referred by his physiotherapist at the Perth Children's hospital. So, when the opportunity to attend this event came up, the McKenzie family didn't hesitate in booking the time to go. The family are grateful for the support of the local Lake Grace Lions Club who have donated towards this trip and the Lake Grace community who are behind them in many ways.

Call for Submissions to Ag Industry Inquiry

Submissions have been invited to the WorkSafe Inquiry into safety in the agriculture sector.

In addition to the call for written submissions, Independent Inquirer Pam Scott will seek community consultation in person at venues to be announced throughout WA.

WorkSafe Commissioner Darren Kavanagh announced the Inquiry in June after the 12th death in the agriculture sector over a 12-month period. Ms Scott was appointed last month to undertake the Inquiry.

The Terms of Reference for the Inquiry have been announced, and include analysing deaths and serious injuries in the sector, examining the role and powers of Work Health and Safety inspectors and recommending strategies and targets to reduce or eliminate deaths and serious injuries in agriculture.

Ms Scott will also travel to towns across WA to consult directly with members of the industry. Locations and dates for these meetings will be advertised soon.

Anyone wishing to make a submission or provide information to the Inquiry needs to do so by Friday October 1 to ag inquiry@worksafe.wa.gov.au or via post to:

New Banners for Lake Grace Art Space

Leanne Young

Out with the old in with the new

Over the last few months Members of the Art Group have been busy sewing nine new Banners for the Art Space to replace the old ones which are about 12 years old. They are made from nylon sailcloth used for sails on boats as the name suggests and are quite durable but do fade over time.

Each one has been designed by the members themselves. They have been made using bright happy colours and will be sure to brighten up the street.

The banners will be placed outside on the Median strip letting tourists and locals alike know that there is an event happening and/or exhibitions in the art space and to entice visitors in.

Lake Grace Art Space is part of the Art trail again this year, as is the District High School. There are 55 venues to check out in the Great Southern, with a wide variety of works. Many people like to follow the Art trails each year and visitors come from all around.

Hopefully some of these new Banners will be ready in time for the Art trail that is coming up in September.

Free Mammograms for Women

BreastScreen WA's FREE screening mammogram service is coming to Lake Grace from 11th October to 18th October and the mobile clinic will be located at the Lake Grace Shire Hall. Women 40 years and over with no symptoms are eligible for a FREE screening mammogram.

Breast cancer is the most common life threatening cancer for women and 1 in 7 women in Australia will develop breast cancer in their lifetime.

Having a screening mammogram (breast x-ray) every two years significantly increases the chance of a woman surviving breast cancer and reduces the amount of treatment required. More than 75% of breast cancers occur in women over the age of 50. Research shows that screening is most effective for this age group.

BreastScreen WA's Medical Director Dr Elizabeth Wylie, said screening mammography was the most effective method for early detection of breast cancer.

"Screening every two years is vitally important to increase the chance of a breast cancer being detected when it is too small to feel or be noticed. Finding a cancer at this early stage often means that the breast cancer is small and more treatable".

"A free screening mammogram is one of the best things that women can do to look after their health. Breast screening saves lives and only takes 20 minutes," said Dr Wylie.

Screening mammograms may detect 70-90% of breast cancers. Any woman with a persistent change in a breast should contact her doctor immediately.

Dates may be subject to change. If visit dates are not suitable participants are welcome to book at the clinic in a different town or at any of our permanent clinics. For more information please visit BreastScreen WA's website www.breastscreen.health.wa.gov.au.

STATION NEWS

It's been a busy fortnight for us here at the Lake Grace Police Station. The Newdegate Field Days were a great success and there were no reported offences over the two days. Some may have noticed a large number of police at the event and that would be because we had officers from Wagin, Dumbleyung, Wickiepin, Kulin, Kondinin, and Corrigin Police Stations. It was a great turnout and we all had a great time and enjoyed the friendly crowd.

CRIME NEWS

Unfortunately, we have had three more reports of payment redirection scams. These are becoming increasingly common in our area. For those who aren't aware a payment redirection scam, also known as business email compromise scams, occur when scammers impersonate a business or its employees via email and request that money, which usually is owed to the legitimate business, is sent to a fraudulent account.

In all cases the victim has noticed the BSB and account number for the business had changed from the normal account. They have done the right thing and contacted the business to confirm the change of details. The victim only confirmed the account had changed, not the specific account details. Two invoices were found to be a scam as one business had recently changed their account details. The invoice for $60,000 was paid into the scammers account as a result. This is a reminder to confirm both the BSB and account number prior to payment of an invoice.

Businesses should look at removing BSB and account details from their invoices and either direct customers to their website, where those details can be found, or provide them over the phone. If a customer is directed to your website it is suggested the link not be provided as this can also be altered, and the customer should use Google, or similar, to find the website.

Lake Grace Police were also contacted by the South Australian Police in regards to a similar matter in their jurisdiction. A Newdegate resident has been the unknown victim of identity theft. The suspects have set up a bank account in the victim's name and used the account to receive stolen or fraudulently obtained funds before transferring the money onto its next destination, which is ultimately overseas. Identity theft is also becoming increasingly common. The Australian Federal Police (AFP) website has a lot of useful information on the subject and a list of things you can do to reduce the chances of becoming a victim of this crime.

TRAFFIC NEWS

We've been catching even more drivers driving under the influence of drugs lately. Three in just eight days. Road policing and road safety are of paramount importance to us. This has been a very concerning trend considering the dangers of impaired driving. In response we have secured more drug testing kits and will be increasing our random and targeted roadside drug testing. We have received more drug testing equipment than we used in the entire 2021 period with the promise of more should it be required.

We ask that anyone who has concerns about an impaired driver contact us like you would any other crime. We are more than happy to remove these unsafe drivers from the roads.

Please take care and stay safe.

Regards,

Lake Grace Police.

TOP TIPS FOR CYBER SECURITY

PRACTICAL WAYS TO PROTECT YOURSELF ONLINE

cyber.gov.au/learn

Update your devices

Updating your devices can fix issues and address new security concerns or weaknesses that hackers could use to access your devices. They can also add new features to your apps or device.

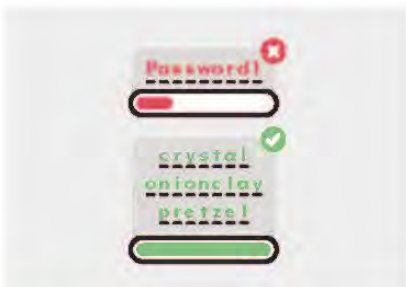

Turn on multi-factor authentication (MFA)

MFA means having more than one check in place to prove your identity on an account. For example, you may need a code from a text message and your passphrase. It makes it much harder for cybercriminals to access your accounts.

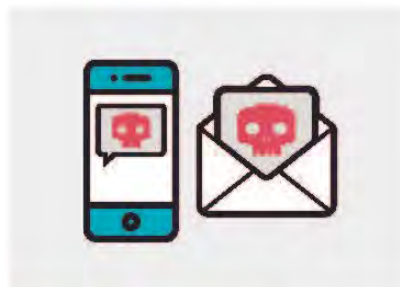

Set up and perform regular backups

A backup is a digital copy of your most important information either to an external storage device or a server on the internet like the cloud. It means you can restore your files if something goes wrong.

Set up secure passphrases

When MFA is not available, use a passphrase to secure your account. Passphrases are the more secure version of passwords, using four or more random words as your password. This makes them hard for cybercriminals to guess but easy for you to remember.

Recognise and report scams

Book Review: Till Death (Or a Little Light Maiming) Do us Part by Kathy Lette

Suzanne Reeves

When Jason Riley goes missing, his family—make that families—have many questions.

Hearing a news report that a man on his morning swim has been taken by a Great White, teacher Gwen races to the beach, and finds all that remains of her husband are his swimming cap and a piece of torn, blood-stained wetsuit.

Her shock and heartbreak are soon interrupted by a woman screeching to a halt on a motorbike. Tish screams for information, convinced it's her husband who has been taken by the man-eater. Gwen reassures her that Jason Riley is the man who has perished. "I know! Jason Riley's my husband!" Tish sobs.

Needless to say their grief is somewhat blighted by the realization they're both married to the same man. And their mutual animosity is not assuaged when they learn that Jason recently sent all his—make that their—money to a mysterious female 'business partner' in Egypt. Broke and betrayed, this odd couple have no choice but to follow the money.

Till Death, or a Little Light Maiming, Do Us Part is a revenge caper that propels our double-crossed heroines around the world on the trail of truth and retribution. During this odd-couple comedic misadventure, will Gwen and Tish be at each other's throats before you can say 'lost luggage' or forge an unlikely alliance? There's wit, grit, bitter twists and surprising turns in this story about female friendship, even in the most shark-infested waters.

Paddy Hart - Part One

State Library of WA, Oral Histories

The Cheynes Beach Whaling Company was the last whaling company to cease operations in Australia, closing in 1978. On the evening 21st November 1978, the Cheynes II, Cheynes III and Cheynes IV berthed at the Albany Town Jetty after their last whale hunt. The last shore based whaling station in Australia closed and 178 years of whaling in Albany waters came to an end.

Now a tourist attraction, Albany's Historic Whaling Station is the only experience of its kind in the world. You can explore an intact whale processing factory and whale chasing ship - fully restored and ready for you to discover. Opening in 1980 (known then as Whale World), it is now home to an interactive museum on whales and whaling.

This story is based on the oral history of James (Paddy) Hart.

I got my nickname Paddy from Ches Stubbs. Being Irish where everyone is supposed to be called Paddy or Molly, he couldn't remember my name at times so I just got Paddy and it stuck.

My mother's side were all seafaring people. On my father's side, well there was a mixture of politicians, labourers, rogues, and whatnot. (laughs).

I grew up in Dublin, finished school at age fourteen, and was apprenticed to be a chef but didn't stay long with it.

I went to sea, starting as a galley boy cleaning pots and pans until I sat for and received my chief cook's ticket. At 20 years old I was the youngest chief cook in the Irish Merchant Navy.

In the 1950s I was on trampers, steamers... with no predetermined port of call, they just went around the world picking cargo up. You could be away for any period from six months to two years and could only sign off in Ireland or Europe.

It was extremely tough cooking under those conditions because seamen like Australian shearers are notorious whingers. Everything had to be perfect. In those days they weren't beyond punching you in the face if things weren't correct either. (laughs) We would carry provisions for six or eight months and consequently, we ate a lot of haricot beans and all sorts.

Coming up to 21 years of age, I was a crew member on the Irish Spruce and we berthed in Albany. It was a small country town in 1959 and I found the Australians terrific. I loved the place. There seemed to be plenty of work and opportunity, so I jumped ship.

But I soon found out that while it was easy to get work - as a building contractor and salmon fisherman - because I was an illegal immigrant it was very hard to get paid for doing it. Eventually, one of the contractors to avoid paying me, doxed me into the police.

I was sentenced to be deported back to Ireland and spent time in Fremantle jail but managed to get a permit for six months on the proviso that I worked and was of good character. After six months that was extended to permanent status.

I returned to Albany and was recruited by a couple of drunken deckhands at the White Star Hotel, as a cook on the whale catcher the KOS VII.

The cook on a whaleboat was responsible for planning the menus - steak, chops, a roast, fish, bacon, and eggs, and depending on how temperamental he was, he'd be open to suggestions. The food budget was always quite substantial and there was a galley boy to help. He washed the dishes, peeled the vegetables, and mopped the floors.

In the galley on the KOS VII, there was a wood stove. Outside lashed to the rail were two 44-gallon drums with the tops cut off and filled with wood. Quite often in rough weather, the drums would get washed away so there wouldn't be any wood to cook with. Serving tinned tucker always went down with the crew like a lead balloon.

The comfort on ships in those days was non-existent for the crew. There was no relaxation space, and the quarters were very cramped, four men to a cabin. There were double bunks, perhaps a wardrobe and a couple of drawers, that's all. The skipper's cabin though was vastly different. He had his own double bunk, a lounge type of thing, plus his own toilet and shower.

After only two weeks of being a cook on the KOS VII, I applied for a job as a deckhand and continued from there. Over the next five years I progressed on the Cheynes II to second mate, then to first mate, and finally to skipper.

A typical day during the 1960s sperm whaling in Albany started at 3 o'clock in the morning. The engineer and fireman would get up an hour earlier to prepare the boilers and get steam up. The skipper took the boat out from the jetty, through the channel, and out into the Sound, and then he retired.

From 3 o'clock till 8 o'clock there were four people on watch - two on deck and two in the engine room. At 6 o'clock the cook would be called and he'd start his work and at 8 o'clock the first watch would be relieved by the second watch.

In a lot of cases during the peak whaling period, people on an early watch might only get their heads down for a half hour before we were whaling solid all day. Harpoons were prepared on rough weather days when it was extremely difficult to tow a whale in.

Everyone got an adrenaline rush when whales were spotted. The spotter would call out "Whales" and then give directions like "starboard quarter, five miles" or something like that. We'd put the binoculars on then and watch for the blows.

A typical sperm blow hole was offset on the side of his head so it would blow to the side - a good strong blow. Whereas a killer whale had a blow hole in the centre of his head and it was just a wispy blow. The larger whales like the blue whales were very distinctive, one real high blow.

We only took large bulls, large old bulls which had finished their working life. We generally left the cows alone. People believed that we were decimating the stocks but that wasn't quite right in the case of the sperm whale. With the humpback unfortunately that was the case because they were very close offshore and the cow was large, if not larger than the bull, so it was taken a lot. Their stocks were decimated and it required a 50-year moratorium to bring the stocks back.

It didn't matter if you went whaling every day it was always different and you were always expecting the unexpected. Once you got to chasing speed it was nearly impossible to sleep so generally the crewmen that were off duty would hop out of the bunks, come up on deck and have a cup of coffee. Chasing speed was about 12 knots, depending on the weather conditions or if you were following or running into the sea.

The skipper was the master gunner so he shot the whale. Then the mate took over and it was his duty to get the whale alongside for towing. He directed operations on deck. The second mate always operated the winch and then the four deckhands were sent to different areas. It was a team effort.

The first whale killing I saw was kind of sad. I will always remember it. I couldn't believe that you could kill such a large animal instantly, and that was a bit of a relief. I always thought the method satisfactory and quite humane because it was in no one's interest to prolong the agony or to be complacent. Generally speaking, everybody tried to make a clean kill.

The number of whales you'd get on a day depended on conditions and how early you got to them and how easy the whales were to catch. Some days you could go straight up to them and they'd be relaxed and other days they'd dive and stay under for hours so you couldn't really work out an average, you know.

Navigational aids in the early days were not good, but seeing as how we only went along the coast landmarks were extremely important for bearings, as were lighthouses. The radars on the Cheynes II and III originally were old valve jobs that came out at the end of the Second World War. They always broke down when you needed them most, and didn't seem to penetrate through a lot of weather.

In the evening you would head into King George Sound with whales in tow (tagged to identify which boat they'd come from), to the whaling station. A tow boat would be waiting to take your whales from you. Then you'd proceed back to the town jetty and if you had enough harpoons for the next day the married men would go home. The single chaps would go to the pub, then back to the chaser to sleep.

Skipper Ches Stubbs was quite a character. He was just the greatest guy under the sun to get along with and quite generous. I can recall him inviting the whole crew up to the Chinese restaurant for a meal and it must have cost him a packet. But when he got on the hunt his personality changed. He became very excitable and berate anyone for anything that went wrong.

On occasions, Ches took his white sulfur-crested cockatoo out to sea for a bit of a trip. This was an exception because there were no pets or women allowed on the chasers. Once a woman was smuggled on and there was hell to pay.

We built a perch on the back of the bridge for the cocky. The crewmen considered her a bloody nuisance as they wore thongs and she would start chewing at their toes.

Then one day we had a whale on the line, the bird took fright and fell into the water. Ches wanted someone to jump in and get his bird but we weren't having any part of that. We got her out with a boat hook and tried to give her mouth-to-mouth resuscitation because the last thing we wanted to tell Ches was that his bird was dead. But try as we might the bird was dead and that was it.

The second part of Paddy's story will be in next fortnight's edition of the Lakes Link News.

From the CEO

Congratulations to the Newdegate Field Days committee for another successfully run event. Fifty years is quite an achievement. I believe that numbers were down a bit on last year's event but those who didn't go were the ones missing out.

The next big event for Newdegate is the town centenary with the finishing touches being done. By all accounts it should be well attended with many items of interest around the town.

Congratulations to all the winners over the weekend finals for Winter Sports. Newdegate Junior Hockey won against Gnowangerup while the women's Lake Grace/Pingrup won over Newdegate. Junior Netball Jerramungup were victors over Lake Grace/Pingrup, B Grade Gnowangerup won over Boxwood Hill. The A Grade game was a nail biter with Lake Grace/Pingrup winning by one goal over Newdegate.

Football were Jerramungup victors over Lake Grace/Pingrup in the juniors, Reserves game was Lake Grace/Pingrup who won over Boxwood Hill and the League game Gnowangerup won the day over Lake Grace/Pingrup. Congratulations to Lake Grace/Pingrup Winter Sports for having so many teams in this years grand finals.

Facility Hire

Please contact the Shire to book Shire facilities.

You are required to read the COVID Safety Plan before using the facility.

People, groups, and clubs who hire public buildings are still required to:

- Complete the WA Government Safety Plan
- Register users of the facility
- Monitor entry and exits
- Disinfect surfaces, door handles, table chairs, showers, and toilets regularly.

At the end of the event the requirements are:

- Return tables and chairs to the designated storage area
- Put all rubbish into the outside Sulo bins provided, including rubbish in toilets
- Ensure all stoves and lights are turned off
- Report any damages incurred while hiring the facility
- Facility to be left in the same condition as found upon arrival including the floors
- All external doors are closed and locked;

This is most important as often doors are not locked when cleaners arrive.

Shire cleaners are responsible for the general cleaning of a facility, however, they are not responsible for cleaning up and putting away tables and chairs after a function.

Community Emergency Service

The new Australian Fire Danger Rating System has now commenced. The new system has simplified the number of ratings from 6 to 4 and has been harmonised across the country, providing a consistent experience for tourists and residents alike. To provide consistency, the system adapts to the relevant vegetation types within the forecast area where previously only 2 fuel types were utilised.

For more information, search "AFDRS" online. Resources have been published through AFAC nationally and DFES locally.

The new Australian Fire Danger Rating System (AFDRS) levels are:

For more information: <https://www.dfes.wa.gov.au/hazard-information/bushfire/prepare#fire-danger>

Moderate: Plan and prepare. Most fires can be controlled. Stay up to date and be alert for fires in your area.
High: Be ready to act. Fires can be dangerous. Decide what you will do if a fire starts. Leave bushfire risk areas if necessary.
Extreme: Take action now to protect your life and property. Fires will spread quickly and be extremely dangerous. Put your bushfire plan into action. If you and your property are not prepared to the highest level, plan to leave early.
Catastrophic For your survival, leave bushfire risk areas. These are the most dangerous conditions for a fire. Homes cannot withstand fires in these conditions and if a fire starts and takes hold, lives are likely to be lost. Stay safe by going to a safer location early in the morning or the night before.

Important Dates to Remember

Add up your score and see how you rate. 15 or over, at least you can see some funny things in life. And here is something I came across the other day that points to the fact that I must be getting old.

You know you're getting old when the rocking chair feels like a roller coaster.

The good thing about having a bad memory is that jokes can be funny more than once.

Older people shouldn't eat healthy food. They need all the preservatives they can get.

What is Grandpas bedtime? One hour after falling asleep in his rocking chair.

My wife was worried about getting older, so before she woke up on her birthday, I cut off all the white hairs she had. For some reason, she woke up bald and with a bad attitude.

One good thing about getting older and having a shorter memory: I can hide my own Easter eggs.

"By the time a man is wise enough to watch his step, he's too old to go anywhere"- Billy Crystal.

You know you are old when you're told to slow down by your doctor and not the police.

You know you are old when the oxygen masks drop from the ceiling when your birthday candles are lit.

Do you want to know the secret to getting a smoking hot body at your age? Cremation

I don't mind the getting old bit, it is the things that go with it.

outright and having a draw in the other two. However you never know what's going to happen on game day so the top of the table Lake Grace-Pingrup were not going to be complacent with the third placed Newdegate who would also have had many supporters on the sideline. Lake Grace-Pingrup took line honours 5-0.

In A Grade netball however it was the second placed Lake Grace-Pingrup playing against the fourth placed Newdegate, another derby! Although the end of season table showed that Lake Grace-Pingrup were well placed it was a hard fought game with Lake Grace-Pingrup coming out with win, 42-41!

In Junior netball third placed Lake Grace-Pingrup were up against 'top of the table' Jerramungup. However Lake Grace-Pingrup were only two wins for the season behind Jerramungup and anything can happen on the day. Lake Grace-Pingrup went down to Jerramungup 24-31.

For football the Reserves were first cab off the rank; it was the second placed Boxwood Hill against the third placed Lake Grace-Pingrup. Fabulous weather and a strong home crowd revved the home team up; coming out victorious 13-11 (89) to Boxwood Hill's 9-4 (58). Going on past games the punters would have perhaps favoured Boxwood Hill as in their three clashes throughout the season Boxwood had taken the points on every occasion (one game was a forfeit).

The juniors were pumped as they ran through a guard of honor provided by the Reserves. The third placed Lake Grace-Pingrup were up against the top of the ladder Jerramungup. The Lake Grace-Pingrup players knew that they had a tough game ahead as they had never had a win against Jerry. Jerramungup had a solid performance; defeating Lake Grace-Pingrup 13-4 (82) to 1-0 (6).

Kelvin Holmes second placed League team were up against the top of the ladder Gnowangerup. Lake Grace-Pingrup had only been defeated four times throughout the season; three of these games had been against Gnowangerup. However a home crowd and a Grand Final has been known to cause an upset so it wasn't over until the final siren. In their best performance of the season against Gnowangerup, Lake Grace-Pingrup went down 9.8 (62) to 12.10 (82).

Well done to all of the teams who made it through to the Grand Final. Top effort!

GRAND FINAL VS NEWDEGATE

After all the training and hard work the girls put in each week it was all worth it playing in a home GRAND FINAL!!

It was even more exciting playing against Newdegate, the old derby.

The weather turned it on and the day was glorious no rain, no wind. No one could blame the weather.

The girls were tuned up by their captain before the game with some banter in the changerooms which set the tone before they went out to warm up. We were introduced to the crowd and then into the game, straight away there were tussles all over the court.

Important to get a good start and the girls did just that. Chloe looked the target with the Newdegate defence double defending her but Maggie was running hard and making moves everywhere and she was getting lots of the ball shooting and passing to Chloe who stood up and rebounded. The defence started to work together with Deb, Chloe and Joely rebounding the ball back into the centre court of Shenae and Tuscany who fed the ball into the goals. Two goals up at quarter time.

Another quarter of much the same in the second and by half time we were four goals up. Good input from Bree and Georgie off the bench with the girls taking it on board.

After halftime the girls fired. Important turnovers by Joely across the court, Tuscany moved into centre and also created a few turnovers which swung the game in our favour.

Chloe and Deb in defence were rattling Newdy shooters and winning the ball and Maggie and Chloe beat their defenders. Shenae was guiding her players around court and we were seven goals up at three quarter time.

But like they say it isn't over till the end. Newdegate came with a rush and we were the ones creating a few turnovers, tired bodies and all of a sudden there was only a couple of goals in it.

The team held their nerve, kept their mind on the job and ran out winners by one goal.

A proud coaches bench!!!

FINAL SCORE LGP 42 -NEW 41

BEST ON GROUND: MAGGIE PRATER

One of my sweetest ever wins as a coach in a GRAND FINAL.

I am so proud of all nine girls the way you played, the way you conducted yourselves all season on and off the court.

It is a credit to you all and you TRULY DESERVED to win the game.

Thanks to Bree and Georgie for your input on the bench a big part of the win.

THANKYOU once again to MARIA TAYLOR you are a champion of our club and your help was invaluable.

AN AMAZING SEASON.
